THE ORACLE

JUNE—1943

PUBLISHED FIVE TIMES A
YEAR BY THE STUDENTS
OF BANGOR HIGH SCHOOL
BANGOR, MAINE

1943

The "Oracle" is approved by the Bangor Chamber of Commerce as an advertising medium.

FOREWORD

PERHAPS the ejaculation best remembered by the 1942-1943 Oracle Staff will be: "But this is war!"

Despite limitations, priorities, and cuts, the board has managed to put out consistently improved issues. Evermindful of its obligation as representative and biographer of the School, the Oracle has tried to mirror back the students to themselves and to record faithfully their activities. Increasingly favorable comments from the National Scholastic Press Association and from other sources have encouraged the efforts of the staff.

An original assembly play was a lively lead for the fall subscription campaign which was highly successful in spite of decreased enrollment.

That this is war has been especially evident in the shifted schedule, the shortened meetings, the doubled duties of the staff members. Students with the will and ability to produce ideas and material for the Oracle simply have not had the time. Or when there has been time and talent, they have not been utilized because of wartime restrictions on printers' and engravers' equipment. Now when so many school organizations are closing shop until the war is ended, the Oracle cannot, must not be classed among those for whom it is better to lie dormant for the duration. Vital for its historical value as well as its literary, this student magazine should be the last to be sacrificed. The school in war can be preserved for succeeding Bangor High students no more permanently than in these pages. And when war clouds and government priorities have lifted, the Oracle will begin to realize its many possibilities: photographic covers; a consistent, Oracle-style type of column head; — "bleeding off" fashion pictures and others. These and more the Oracle so wanted to see in actuality this year. But it would seem that this pleasure was not for 1943, but the happy prospect of some future year.

As the Oracle launches into its second half-century, it wishes to express appreciation to its advertisers for their continued support in spite of wartime budgets; to Mr. Frederick Pinkham and the typing classes; to the good will and the good work of Jordan-Frost printers, and to the many teachers and students who have shown ready and able cooperation during this first full year of World War II.

VICTORY

by Marydel Coolidge

No gleaming wealth or wit can gain
An easy access to her door;
Success lies not in luxury,
Nor does she crown the brow of war.

The ring of Victory does not lurk
In leisure's laugh or battle's cry;
Her voice is shrill where hammers clang,
Machines go mad, and splinters fly.

The mettle in the man outweighs
The metal that his guiles beget;
The stuff of which success is made
Is blood and tears and honest sweat.

DEDICATION

THE thoughts of youth in 1943 are inevitably thoughts of war. No one can remain untouched by the human tragedy that is war. With awful intonations it announces sorrow, suffering, death to supposedly civilized peoples—grown selfish in their civilization. Comrades and counselors of youth are caught in the clutches of conflict. No wonder the future twists itself into an overwhelming question mark, and youth is asking, “Why war? What is civilization? Where is God?”

To us at Bangor High School, the induction of friends and teachers, the progress of their training, their promotions, word of honors won and lives lost, bring home the war. Many of us are soon to join their ranks. Our eyes and hopes are fixed upon them whose lot is service to the nation. Some will return; some we shall never see again. But it is to them that we, the youth of 1943, can look for the answer to our questions.

In a spirit not so much of dedication as of prayer, we pay tribute to the men and women, boys and girls, who have gone forth from Bangor High School in the services of their country. We pray that we may find strength to stand firm and true behind them every minute of the way.

Pledge of Allegiance

Bangor High School Scholars

UNDER the leadership of the Student Council, a Scholarship Recognition Day was inaugurated at Bangor High School this year. The student assembly committee consisting of John Ballou, president of Council, Prudence Speirs, and Robert Saltzman decided to give honor to pupils who for four years have consistently maintained a high scholastic standing in all major subjects. This gesture of recognition by the Student Council is an indication that the students themselves appreciate scholarship and wish to pay some special tribute to this most important phase of their academic life.

Honors at graduation and membership in the National Honor Society already provide one type of scholarship recognition, but attainment of either of these honors does not necessarily imply the degree of consistency in achievement required for a Scholarship Recognition Certificate. The recipient of honor rank at graduation is a pupil who has achieved a four year average of 85 or better in all major subjects; he may or may not have earned honor rank in each subject every semester. The recipient of membership in National Honor Society is a pupil standing in the upper third of his class who also excels in character, leadership, and service; he may or may not have earned honor rank in each subject every semester. The recipient of a Scholarship Recognition Certificate is a pupil who has succeeded in scholastic achievement by maintaining a rank of 85 or better in every subject, each semester for seven semesters. Thus a Scholarship Recognition Certificate may be said to be a tribute to consistency in academic achievement. Pupils receiving these certificates are known as Bangor High School Scholars.

This reward for outstanding consistency in maintaining a high scholastic standing in a class of over two hundred was given to the following seniors:

Rena Bell	Carro Davies
Robert Berry	Ruth Fairley
Anita Broder	Carol McCormick
Pearl Buck	Eleanor Smith
Shirley Castner	Prudence Speirs
Marydel Coolidge	Edith Strout
Eleanor Prusaitis

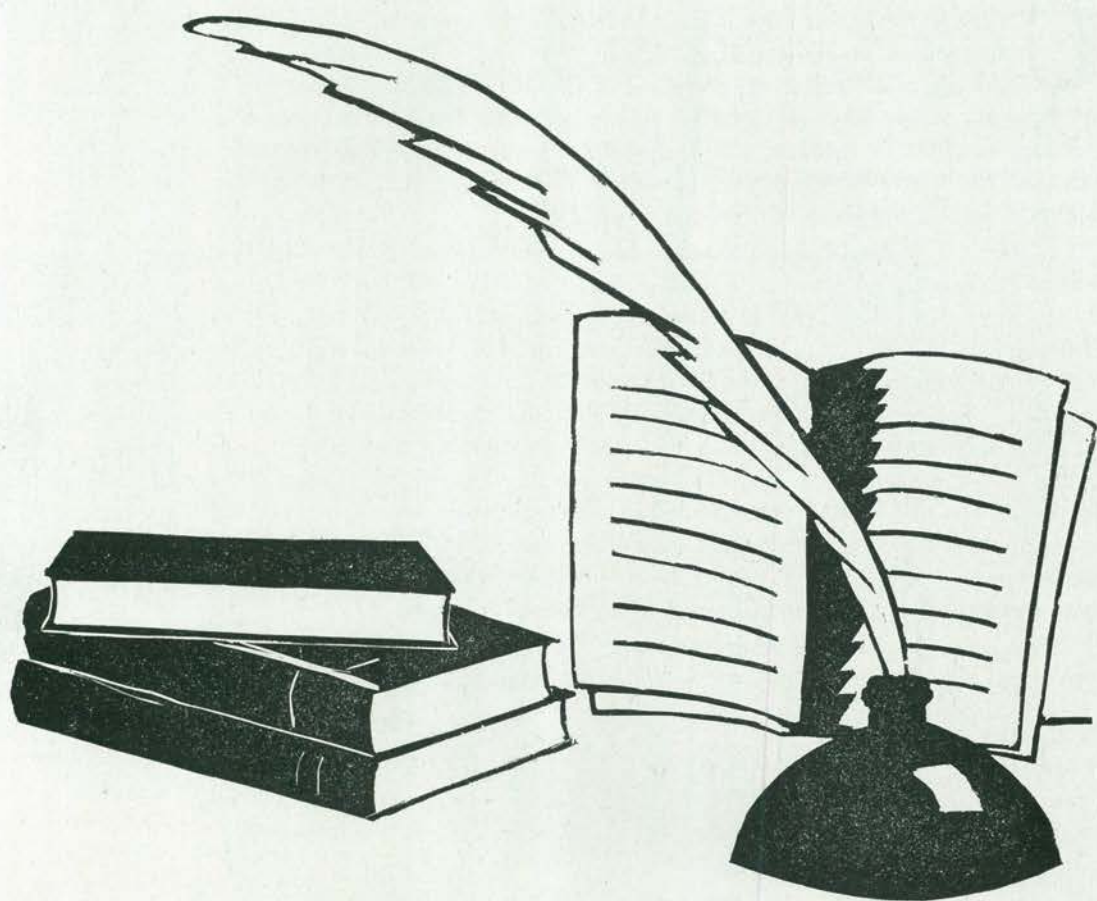

In order that juniors and sophomores might also have an active part in Scholarship Day, tentative lists were prepared of all who so far in their course have maintained a rank of 85 or better in each major subject. These students are considered candidates for recognition as Bangor High School Scholars and will be so declared along with other members of their classes who meet the prescribed requirements by the end of their senior year.

JUNIOR TENTATIVE LIST

ESSAYS

Woman Emergent

by Marydel Coolidge

ALICE Duer Miller asks with a suggestion of irony, "Are women people?" The time approaches when the world will fully affirm that they are . . . when the world will declare with Lucretia Mott that women have the inherent right to vote. . . . when the world will perceive with Mary Lyon that the mind of woman differs in no essential from that of man, or as Madame Chiang Kai-shek replied upon being asked her opinion on the Equal Rights Amendment, "Brains have no sex." There is, however, still much time before that truth has universal acceptance.

Woman emergent is a reality that calls for adjustment. It is also a change that has been amazingly advanced by war. Trite but truer than ever in 1943, "a woman's work is never done." War has necessitated that she maintain two fronts—that she function conscientiously in the home and that she supplement manpower in countless callings. That women can defend their country and do, is being evidenced every day. The splendid wartime performance of women a generation ago was powerful argument for suffrage, for they quietly and efficiently shouldered responsibilities on a par with those of men in the time of peace. Thus World War I accelerated the woman movement. How great a force will World War II bring to bear on the woman emergent? How far will this war for survival carry her towards the fulfillment of her dearest, most daring dreams—the visions of the courageous women leaders about whom spoke China's first lady: "They fought for recognition that each sex had a distinctive contribution to make to public affairs and society and that failure to accept the logic of women's altered status was an effort to 'put the bird back into the egg.'"

The woman of tomorrow will be the woman in politics—politics in its finest connotation. She will be a woman of strength, vision, and courage, the woman emergent of World War II. And her inspiring prototype will be one of the three greatest women of China—Soong Mayling.

The Missimo's childhood was not marked by material wealth; but her mother taught her the need and power of prayer, and her father gave her the American education that was a part of his dream of freeing China. In the last seven years Mayling has suffered much, for she loves and lives China. And she has been grateful for the stability which having more than a "bowing acquaintance" with God has established in her life.

Wellesley's first alumna returned in March to the scene of her days as a student. Student-like, she still seeks the truth in all matters, firm in the faith that it does exist. On campus she addressed the woman of tomorrow in naming the college as the reservoir from which women will renew strength to work for a saner world of peace and fellowship. Wellesley's watchword, "Not to be ministered unto but to minister," has been her guide-line; from it she explained the three fundamentals she has learned: cooperation, the spirit of humility, and probity in thought and in action.

Unfailing at the Generalissimo's side, Mayling lends her strength to China's Strong Man. As "husband helper," she finds an outlet for the exuberance of energy and intelligence that sometimes made her appear impatient and unconventional. Or is it the impressionable period in America that gave her this restlessness? From her school days she has "kept up an awful thinking about everything."

Madame Chiang is the New Life Movement—a spiritual reform for China and a pet project for the Chiangs. With the coming of war, the program proved more than "a code of petty rules for behavior." It enabled the Madame to concentrate quickly on the organization of Chinese women. The efforts of women leaders she directed to the education of the masses, which she held to be as important to defense as hospitals and munitions factories. Workable plans she evolved for the training of teachers and for the evacuation of war workers and war orphans. The miracle of her personality has made Chinese women be

by Peter Bradshaw

“PAN Asiatic Express Company? This is Burnett of General Motors. Have you shipping space for forty-three automobiles aboard the next aerial train bound for Honolulu? You have? We'll send them down at once. And would you please drop off four of the trucks at San Francisco on your way over?”

A dream? Perhaps. Today, yes; tomorrow, a reality. When the world crawls from beneath the debris left in the wake of man's greatest fight for freedom, it will turn to the air. Even while the smoke of battle yet hangs low, planes will be the speediest transportation for vitally needed relief materials and food for a starving world.

Huge multi-engined planes will tow dozens of freight gliders along the air-roads of tomorrow; each glider detaching itself from the tow plane at a designated spot and gliding to earth with its load of freight.

A vast world wide net work of air lines, carrying tons of materials to the remotest places, will give opportunity for employment to thousands of young men. Planes used as moving vans will come into being; planes will carry tourists to every continent and country; planes will replace buses in long distance travels; planes, planes, planes, and more planes, an endless line of planes to transform the living conditions of tomorrow's civilization.

Such a great dream cannot be realized unless the countries of the world give up their selfish ideas of “sovereignty of the air;” a statement that each country has complete control of the air above lands and territories. This means that planes have not the right of free flight over foreign territory. Monarchies and Democracies alike refuse to have the planes of traditional enemies flying over their land to spy on their secret fortifications and industrial areas. Should such selfish and jealous aims be tolerated? Should one country have the legal right to prevent other countries from viewing its means of destruction?

In the aftermath of war the foreign policies of nations should be more outspoken than the secret and selfish policies of the past. Some means of determining the truth of diplomatic intercourse should be arranged by the “World Court” which is a must of post-war organization.

The more personal “wings” of the future will be the family plane. The helicopter will be widely used for this purpose. Of course, for many years, these will be found only in homes of wealth or be used by wealthy tourists.

The United States will have the largest air fleet in the world. America's great industries will turn out thousands of planes to travel over every portion of the globe, spreading the ideals of Democracy and of Christianity to backward peoples of the earth.

The high expense of air transportation will doubtless continue for many years, but some day will decrease to fit the income of the common man. Naturally, the automobile will not be replaced, for city travel would hardly be practical in a plane travelling from seventy five to four hundred miles per hour. It will take many years of research in aerodynamics and synthetic fuels to bring the airplane to full power, but its day will come.

As to travel to outer space—probably impossible. But sudden discoveries and steady improvement in atom smashing, active rays, and other engineering marvels may some day, in a far future, send rocket ships speeding to Mars, Venus or the Moon.

Certainly aircraft have a great future and it seems likely that the world will some day be a “world on wings.”

"When Johnny Comes Marching Home Again"

by Edith Strout

WE'LL all be singing "When Johnny Comes Marching Home Again" after the boys come back from war. The hearts of men will be singing, singing for freedom, singing for joy, but singing with sadness, for all the Johnnies who aren't coming home. In all the towns, the cities, on all the farms, the people will be waiting and praying for their Johnnies.

The boys will be different, older, wiser. They've been in fox-holes on Corregidor; seen blood on Bataan. Others have lived for days, waiting on the open sea, and praying to a God they'd sometimes doubted before; still others have felt the hot, unfriendly desert sun on their tired bodies. They've seen it all; they're not going to repeat our old mistakes. We'll need to build; they'll have the tools.

No one knows how long the war will last. We're all strategists, but no one knows. The boys are fighting, but they're also planning. Their first aim is to win the peace, their next to insure its safety for all peoples. Once before, we thought we'd done with wars, casualty lists, famine, telegrams beginning "We regret to inform you—", and lines of hungry, desolate people. Johnnie won't forget this. He won't be fooled again. These are the things he's going to try to abolish.

When the boys dictate the peace terms, they'll remember martyrs; they'll remember the peace-makers; they'll remember documents. People like Jefferson, Lincoln, Ghandi, Chiang-Kai-Chek, Confucius, Roosevelt, and Churchill will stick in their minds.

They won't forget the Cohens, Rubenstein, Flannigans, and Murphys; the Astors and the Lodges, and all those other names they couldn't pronounce before. They'll all be included. They'll remember the Atlantic Charter, the Magna Charter, the Bible. Their minds will be keen, and they won't be easily trapped.

More than ever before, they'll realize how important it is for all men to be free. It's not a question of one nation or one country's being free, but of all nations equally, undividedly, free. The boys won't forget the people who've never been free; the people for whom America was designed.

The boys won't limit the land of the free to America; they'll remember the lost countries. The world will be the land of the free. Lincoln emancipated the slaves. Our boys will see that races are emancipated. There'll be no place for race prejudices. The Negro and the Japanese will work side by side. It will be hard—hard for the boys to forget the war with the Japs and Germans. This will be the criterion. Can they forget the aggressors as such in order to establish a safe world, or will they turn their burning hatred for these condemned, puppet, mechanized peoples into destruction and once again accomplish nothing? Only the boys themselves can answer this. Their study of war and peace should show the right course. With help from us at home, from loved ones, and learned ones, their hatred of the oppressor can be overcome because they'll be strong—stronger in spirit than men have ever been before. Some will never forget the slant-eyed, the yellow-skinned races as being only treacherous, murderous cowards; but others will look ahead to the future—the future for all mankind.

Our boys must be strong enough and brave enough to form a federation which will last not hundreds of years, but for eternity. They must believe in both today and tomorrow. Some of us pessimistic souls smile at the thought of their building for "forever." We don't have quite enough confidence in Johnny. Let's not think for an instant that he can't do it. He can because he has the brains and has the tools. Now, more than ever before, he sees what the world must have. He's realized what blood, sweat, and tears can mean. He knows how it feels to long for the handle of a fishing rod, while gripping the hard stock of a gun. He's going to make our world a better world in which to live. Johnny will laugh at fear, because he knows. He'll have a lot of help from Someone whom he's confident exists. Johnny's also going to have faith in himself. "When Johnny Comes Marching Home Again"—Hurrah, for Johnny's the man of tomorrow.

Planes of the Future

by Leonard Smith

ACROSS the world a shadow lengthens, darkening as it grows. What can it be? Is a long night ahead or has man come to the end of his race? But flying low we see it is one of tomorrow's great air giants. It may be more than 800 feet from wing tip to wing tip, and perhaps 600 feet long. How people thrill today as they read of a 57-passenger clipper cruising around 300 miles per hour six miles up, and of the huge trans-oceanic cloppers designed to carry nearly 100 passengers. But aviation leaders aren't impressed, for today's giants appear to them as puny dwarfs. Five years from now, there will be new giants two or three times as big as today's. Ten years hence, another batch of titans will fall across the world. Men will stare upward in bewilderment. Flying low, the great giant will darken a whole city block.

Whoever first builds, tests, and perfects the 1,000 ton air transport will have in his hands the potential power to rule the world. He will have what Hitler thought he had in his army and his tanks and his tiny planes of 1940. The owner of this titan might attack any city on earth without ever being seen or heard by spotters on the ground. And his attack would be effective simply because he could release so many bombs that aiming would be needless. Whole cities could be destroyed by a small squadron of ten of these titans and in a very few minutes they could work this destruction.

What about the cost? Certainly they could much cheaper than our $100,000,000 battleships and what good are these battleships unless they are protected by a carrier and its planes.

Is all this fantastic? Well, just about as much so as those little crates of wood and canvas that were the object of so much amusement back around 1910. Today a few of the Washington brass hats may laugh at the idea of 1,000 ton air transports, but the aviation leaders know it's just a question of time and the ready cash to attempt the job. With the war and all, we're pretty busy so Titan must wait.

But not so very far off the great giant awaits its hour. Who will own it? Who will fly it? Will some Japanese pilot steer it for California? Will some Russian genius head it for Tokyo? Or will some Yankee flyer take a friendly run to South America? Whoever is the master of the Titan will rule the World. Before anybody can build a rival ship, he can wipe out his enemy as easily as man slaps down a mosquito.

When the mighty Terror strikes, will we have done too little-too late or can we arouse ourselves to the possibility of such a thing? It might not appear for ten or fifteen years, yet somebody could be working on one away back in Central Asia or a lost mountain valley in India or Africa. Did Hitler know Stalin was building all those tanks and planes that stopped the confident German army? He thought the Russians and their equipment would be a push-over. Shrewd leaders can hide their secret.

For as surely as day turns to night, these Titans and small fliver planes are on the way. When they arrive, no one can say. This makes all the more urgent our prompt action in preparation. We must take the first opportunity for designing, testing and building these great 1,000 ton giants and little three passenger flivers. For if we don't create the overwhelming air force first, somebody else will. And that somebody may prefer to use it to destroy us!

Men of Tomorrow

by Harriet Travers

FOR twelve years this spinning earth has carried a burden of war. In most of these years it has carried the burden of depression as well. Millions upon millions of young people have grown up in a world where two great words were depression and war.

Some time in these bitter years—some time in the past few months—the world has changed. It is becoming a world anticipating and planning for peace. A generation haunted by depression and war has begun to plan for a future where both will be impossible. In every country the masses of plain people have their own plans for what they want to do after the victory is won. Some of them are reading books and articles. Most of them are talking about the postwar world in their own language. They are the world's two billion people and their hopes and their works outweigh the promises of leaders and all the plans of the planners.

In India the common people long held down by the bonds of ignorance and superstition, are coming into contact with western ideas of freedom and democracy. Indian nationalists, educated abroad, have returned to lead the movement for Indian independence. This movement with Gandhi and Nehru its outstanding leaders has assumed such tremendous importance that England has been forced to imprison its leaders and resort to violence to keep down the seething discontent. But the march of India toward freedom has begun. Force won't prevail against it. The world is too small for one section to remain backward. As Willkie hints in the title of his book "One World" all the world is moving ahead.

China, our ally, has been fighting for years. In the course of the conflict, the Chinese peoples have learned the value of cooperation and education. The heroism of Chinese students is a saga of unparallel determination. Schools have been transported thousands of miles across the great Chinese lands from the bombed coastal cities to the comparatively safe mountainous country where schools have been set up using caves as classrooms.

The Japanese bombing of their coastal cities has forced a decentralization of their war effort.

Cooperative endeavor thruout China has been the main source of munitions with which to continue her struggle with Japan. When the war ends, China has seen to it that she will have young, alert, educated leaders; her people have learned the lesson of working together; China will emerge from this war a great progressive democracy.

In Europe the people have been ground under the iron heel of Nazism. But they have never given in completely to the Nazi yoke. In every hamlet, town and city there has been organized resistance. This resistance has resulted because the people feel that they can achieve something better. The Four Freedoms and the Atlantic Charter signed by all the United Nations have given expression to that for which the people of Europe are willing to die in an attempt to gain happiness and security for themselves and their children. It is the belief in a better world as well as a revolt against the present state of affairs which prompts them to derail trains, blow up bridges, sabotage war industries and murder German soldiers.

We Americans as co-signers of the Atlantic Charter and the outstanding example of the democratic idea of government "of the people, by the people and for the people" have by our example and our promise pledged ourselves to the creation of a better world in which we recognize our fate as being linked, by means of the airplane and other rapid means of transportation and communication, to the future of the rest of the world.

The man of the future will live in a smaller world where the actions of the Indians, Russians or Africans will affect him as much as the activities of his own government in Washington. He must make an attempt to understand the peculiar social customs of the other sections of this cramped world. If he fails to realize his common heritage with worldwide humanity, this war will have been fought in vain; the world's peace will be sabotaged, and the man of the future will see his children of the future again march off to war.

Opportunities Ahead

by Howard Ricker

June, 1943

Dear Mother,

It's nearly time for graduation, the end of four short years of high school. And after that big event comes another—my probable induction into Uncle Sam's Army, my chance to help along a big job that must be done. From all reports it will be several years at least before the Nazis and Japs surrender. It's about the years immediately following the war in which I'm interested and about which I'm writing to you now.

During the past few years, as I look as it now, I feel that I have been very lucky. Particularly, in the fact that I have had the opportunity to work in two lines of business, of two different types. My automobile experience needs little comment as you well know. Working a year in the Retail Shoe Business under Mr. Claude Lovely's supervision has shown me another field entirely unrelated to the mechanical world, but certainly a place where the value of training and experience is quickly brought to light.

You see, Mother, the years in the mechanical and business worlds that I have enjoyed have set me far ahead of the average young man, and I know that the lessons of business experience will be valuable to me in the Army, and later, as I start to build my future and permanent economic life.

The present World War is a war of mechanical achievement—a war of scientific progress. Soon the world will be enjoying the progress made instead of suffering from scientific destruction. The World of the Future will be the World of Science. . . and there will be a place in it for me because I know that as a free world nothing can hold back my ambition to find a place where I can well serve—where I can well establish myself as a good citizen wherever I may make my home. I'm confident, you know. . . because experience has proved that I can hold my place among men. . . I'm confident too, because of your faith and trust in me, as your son and as an individual, capable of success.

My short experience in mechanics and business. . . which progressed along with my school education, gives a double value to my four years of high school. Together they increase my vision of the progress of the future, they widen my horizon and bring into clearer view what the future may hold. For the years just ahead will be the most important of any century as related to man's possibility for economic progress. Actually thousands of new inventions will be available for developments—plastics, aviation, chemistry, air conditioning, new metals and new uses, new automobiles and new helicopters, and this brief letter can mention but a very few.

Therefore Mother, I have a place to make in a great new world. . . a place that can be the size that I have the fortitude to make it. What more can I ask then the start you have given me. . . love, faith, and strength, and the advantages of good schooling and good guidance of fine teachers and friends. So the future, after the war, seems bright to me, because it offers so much, and because I feel that I have been equipped by good fortune and good parents to meet the years ahead with a spirit of confidence.

So Mom, the future has more opportunities ahead than you may realize or hope for, and I intend to take advantage of them.

Your loving son.

What of the Home ?

by Alice Simons

THERE is no question that women's place in the Post War World will be entirely changed. No longer will she be considered the weaker or lesser sex. This Post War Period will see the pronoun "she" synonymous with "he." The famous toast of Henry W. Wallace, Vice-President of the United States, on his good-will tour of the South American countries, "Not above you; not beneath you; but with you," aptly describes the situation. This parallel interest in business, social and industrial life embracing politics, community service, Civilian Defense projects, etc. will have a very material effect upon the home as we now understand it. The situation is fraught with great dangers, and must be controlled or the home, which is the basis of every valued civilization, will be seriously weakened.

The successful prosecution of the war is now the primary consideration of every man, woman, and child of the United States. Naturally women have to be used, not only in the armed forces, but in every other activity of life, as the best of our manpower is necessary to build an effective, powerful, combatant army. This present emphasis is naturally changing the focus from the essential things in normal life, one of which is the home. This is all very well and is as it should be now. However, the great danger is whether it will bring back these essentials into proper focus when the war effort no longer demands the primary thought of every citizen, and our thoughts again revert to peace.

Will the women who are now WAACS, WAVES, shipyard workers, and Air Raid wardens, members of Disaster Corps, neighborhood workers, most of whom were formally housewives and all of whom were potential homemakers, be willing to return to pre-war status permitting their primary interest and effort to be directed towards the home? It would appear to me that an immediate readjustment cannot, and will not be made. There will be a period of readjustment between the unnatural situation when all of time and energy is directed in interests away from the home, and the natural position of homemaking, the care of children. It is this period that will require careful attention of every person and organization interested in the Post War World.

The Mother naturally is the center of the home unit. All the activities and interests revolve around her, and it is absolutely essential that she should return to normal. Of course it is understood that her entire interest will not remain in the home, but the home should be her prime interest. The danger, then, can be first, an extended period of readjustment during which time the evils resulting from secondary interest in home life, children, etc. will become more or less permanent. Second, the fact of a larger proportion of women retaining things other than the home as their prime interest, thus reducing proportionately a number of homes established. Third, the introducing of new activities which will demand the efforts of women.

I am convinced that any change in the position of women in the Post War World should point towards the strengthening of their initial interest in the home. True, their status will change, as it has changed. Their interest will have broadened. All of this can serve to build and strengthen the foundation of our American Civilization, "The Home." This can be so—it must be so.

Prospectus for Peace

by John Ballou

RECENTLY, an inquiring reporter asked the following question in his column: "Do you believe that this war will end all wars?"

One typical answer was: "No, we fought the last war to end all wars, and look at the mess the world is in today! It has been necessary for the United States to engage in another world conflict, this time for our very salvation and our way of living. And we will have to fight again and again in future generations."

We have learned from Woodrow Wilson's experience with the last war that the desire for an effective and lasting peace must come from the people. The people must not lose sight of tomorrow's world, and they must earnestly desire to establish some form of international security; therefore, attitudes like the above are dangerous.

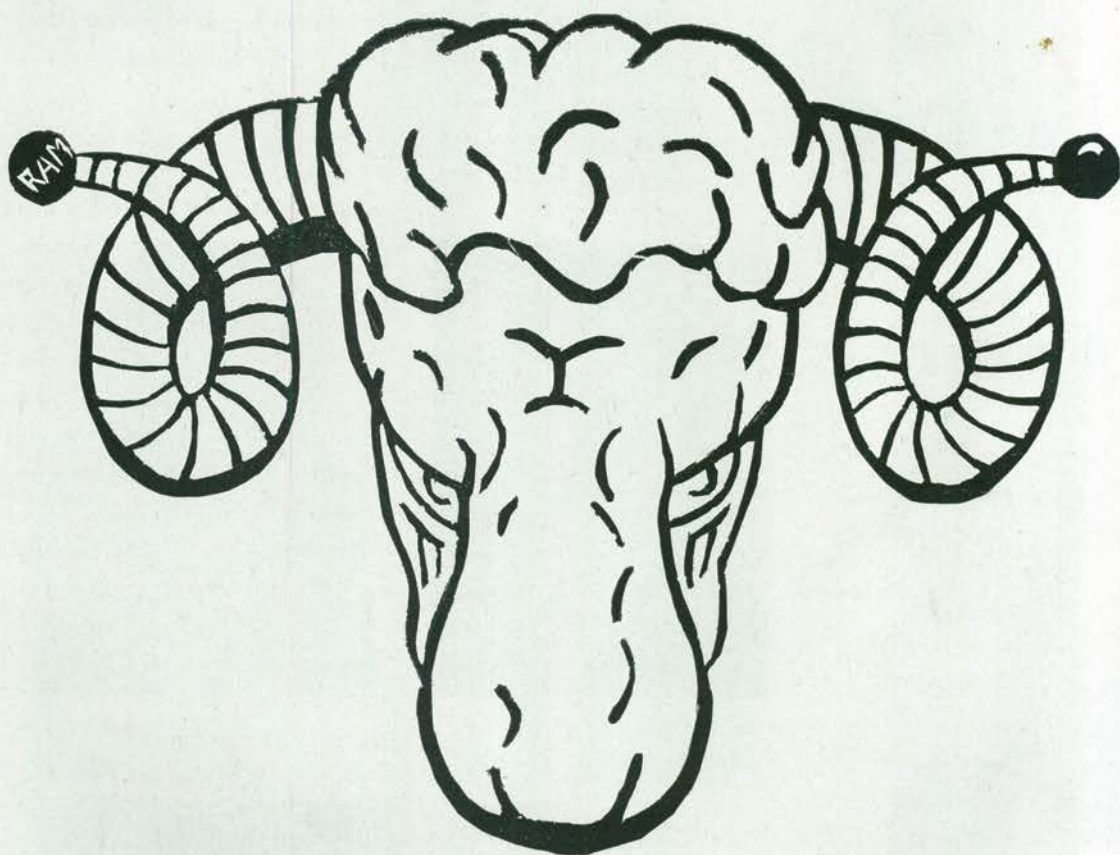

However, this security may not be established without sacrifice. It was admitted after the last war that the reason for the non-acceptance of the League in the United States was, among other things, due to the fact that "it was contrary to the traditional policy of isolation entertained in the U. S." and that "it was an infringement on our Monroe Doctrine." Yes, we were too busy worrying about our rights and traditions to think of the rest of the world. This ugly nationalism must, it cannot be exaggerated, MUST be overcome. If we do not intend to be plunged into the midst of the most costly and horrible war ever conceived, World War III, we must forget our selfishness.

Several types of peace plans have been proposed, namely: the Federal Union of Democracies, the Regional Federations, and the World Organization. The last, in my mind, is the most satisfactory proposition, for here is the best security against World War III. . . . Regional or federal associations could lead to bloodier and more costly wars between regions or federations; however, the mere existence of a global union is not enough, as is indicated by the collapse of the League in the late 1930's.

When a spirit of cooperation and non-selfishness is developed, as I truly believe it can and will be, the forgers of the peace must make the next league strong enough to enforce its decisions. An international police force must be established. (It is a good sign that this idea seems to have been generally accepted by the people). The words "peace organization" must not be misinterpreted; for, as long as man lives, there will be someone who will look out for his own hide first. We must, therefore, be prepared to sacrifice a few lives, a few dollars to quell the inevitable uprisings. Suppose that the League had had a strong enforcement branch during the last ten years. We would have had to send 10,000 or so men into the Rhineland. We would have had to send 30,000 or so men into Manchuria. We would have had to send 50,000 or so men into Ethiopia. It might have been more or less, but the important point is this: If this number of men had been dispatched to those areas, we would not have become involved in this war, which has resulted in a cost 100 times more in men, an infinite number of times more in money, and an untold amount more in sorrow.

Today we have the advantage over the moulders of the last peace. We know the mistakes made last time, and we can correct them. We know that in union there is strength, but in discordance there are only endless wars and chaos. We know that nationalism and imperialism must be snuffed out. We know that we must create a world living in peace and harmony if civilization is to be preserved. This we can do. This we must do. This, by the grace of Almighty God, we will do.

The Oracle Board

MATERIALLY, the war has been a style-cramper, but it certainly has not been able to scranche the willingness to cooperate and to make the best of a cramped situation.

The 1942-1943 staff has been remarkable for carrying on at a time when their increased responsibilities are demanding their services at every turn. 1943 has been an old year as well as a war year; three issues and the June graduation number have been published; there was no April edition because of faculty vote to curtail extra curricula activities.

To Business Manager John Ballou and his staff go thanks for soliciting the support of the advertisers who, although they too are feeling the pinch of priorities, cooperated so splendidly in giving the Oracle the necessary financial backing.

Circulation Manager Bill Drisko has kept our ever increasing number of absentee subscribers completely satisfied.

Under editor Marydel Coolidge's very able direction the editors of the respective departments have performed their tasks willingly and well. Roland Mann received special commendation from the National Scholastic Press Association for his fine book column as did Robert Berry for Radio.

Our illustrious artists, Petterson, Powers, and Cardin, have artfully designed and cut covers and illustrations to accompany the literary section.

The cooperation on the staff and from outsiders this season has been wonderful and truly appreciated, especially when our adviser, Miss Jessie L. Fraser, was forced to direct our February production by remote control. It is to her that our last acknowledgment of appreciation goes, for her patience, encouragement, and assistance in this our humble first effort at editing.

Debate Club

Officers: President, Philip Hatch; Vice-President, Fay Jones; Secretary, Barbara Andrews.

Varsity Debaters: Joseph Oppenheim, Marilyn Chaves, Malcolm Flash, Richard Giles.

Medal Winner: Joseph Oppenheim, for outstanding individual debating ability shown at the Bates Tourney.

Principal Social Events: Rummage Sale, Post Exams Dance, and Final Event.

Principal Debates: Practice Debates at Bangor, Bates Tournament, Class Debates.

With Philip Hatch at the helm and with Mr. Ransford Smith and later Miss Evelyn Haney as first mate (and despite some rather tough sailing) the Debate Club entered home port with all flags flying. Following its custom the club has been a combination of fast moving debate tournaments and gala social events. Starting first with a stupendous rummage sale, at which the necessary funds for carrying on the business were raised, the club went on to one event after another—debate tournaments, dances, lectures; and then, rounded up the year with Final Event.

The club has really done an unusual job this year, in carrying on as it has, for it has not only had the usual obstacles but those added by the war restrictions.

A great deal of credit goes to Mr. Smith and Miss Haney, to a number of individuals who have really put the club over to our debaters and, in fact, to all the members who have been just "swell."

Second row: Richard Giles, Marilyn Chaves, Virginia Foster, Anna St. Onge, Gerald Rudman, and Sandra Ginsberg.

Third row: Howard Gotlieb, Joseph Oppenheim, Malcolm Flash, and Leonard Minsky.

Girls' Athletic Honor Council

THE G. A. H. C. has put in a very busy year. It started off with an extremely successful dance in September. At the football games the girls were ever-present with the ice cream and candy booth. Then came the Hockey Party which was held in the gym as usual.

New members added to the council at that time were Jeanne Archer and Evelyn Foster; Miss Mildred McGuire was made an honorary member.

Next on the list is basketball which started in December and ended in April. This really made a very long but thoroughly enjoyable season. To break up the routine was an assembly in which more new members were taken into the council. They were Annette Chapman, Barbara Chapman, Muriel Doherty, Ann Freeland, and Anne Woodman.

The new officers were elected at the end of the season and installed at the basketball banquet. They are: President, Muriel Doherty; Vice President, Jane Hilton; Secretary, Annie Jane Philbrick; Treasurer, Ann Freeland.

Five other girls were added to the council. They are: Dorothy Mitchell, Barbara Andrews, Eulalie Comstock, Hope Redman, and Barbara Mills.

Commercial Club

AT its first meeting of the year, the Commercial Club, under the leadership of Mrs. Janice M. Burton, elected Howard Hazelton as President. Other officers chosen were as follows: Vice President, Grace Carlisle; Secretary, Eleanor M. Smith; Treasurer, Eleanor Prusaitis; Program Chairman, Anastasia Christakos; and Social Chairman, Clarice Jellison.

The year's activities began with the annual out-of-door party at Oak Grove.

One of the best meetings of the year was held December 4, with Mr. J. Stewart Upton from the Merchants National Bank as speaker. Mr. Upton told how to prepare for work after leaving school, and was very helpful in his suggestions.

The annual Christmas Party was held in the Assembly Hall, December 10.

During January, a field trip took the club to the Court House, where the members were shown through the Probate office, the Registry of Deeds office, and many other offices. They were also conducted through the county jail. In the Probate office, they were shown the system of filing, and many unusual and interesting things. The Registry of Deeds office proved very interesting, especially when the old, old volumes containing the records of the deeds were exhibited.

On February 3, a spelling bee was conducted by Mrs. Margaret Carroll. Those winning the medals were Anastasia Christakos, Howard Hazelton, and Ida Sclair.

Front row: Patricia Annie Christakos, Program Chairman; Clarice Jellison, Social Chairman; Howard Hazelton, President; Eleanor Smith, Secretary; Eleanor Prusaitis, Treasurer; Grace Carlisle, Vice-President; Mary Jenkins, and Arline Gray.
Second row: Lucille Power, Louise French, Ellen Hughes, Madeline Morrill, Marilyn Comeau, Rose Sementelli, Kathleen Downes, and Carro Davies.
Third row: Katharine Simons, Natalie Elsemore, Harriett Duncan, Muriel Doherty, Nannette Turner, Velma Cain, Evelyn Clark, Louine Munn, and Anna Glushinsky.
Fourth row: Alice Simons, Lois Nix, Theresa Ryan, Carolyn Wilson, Vivian Seplin, Louise Hall, and Marion Grant.

Second row, Paul Colburn, Durwood Mansell, Paul Doughty, George McKay, Orman Twitchell, Bob Saltzman, Roland Babcock, Francis Cawley, Don Hawks, and Shad Nelson.

Third row: Everett Hatch, Paul Burr, Charles Williams, Bill Braveman, Rocky Hazen, Don Crabb, and Malcolm Flash.

Fourth row: Jim Adams, Hymie Ginn, Bevan Downie, Forrest Shumway, Don Rose, Roger Teft, Dick Faulkingham, and John Chapman.

Football

THIS year brought to Bangor High another strong football team. Against some of the best teams in the state, this team achieved a record of five victories and two defeats.

Although he had an experienced backfield, consisting of Fibber Magee, Shad Nelson, Lefty Jacobs, and Robbie Speirs, Coach Nanigian had to build an entirely new line. Harry Weston and Guy Ryan alternated at the pivot spot, and at the guard positions were husky Will Pierce and Ducky Saltzman. Rolly Babcock and Gardner Moulton held down the tackle posts, and Ray Rideout and Don Hawks gained the end positions.

Many substitutes were used throughout the season, and they really showed up well.

The Bangor victories were tabbed against John Bapst, Higgins, Waterville, and two against Brewer. Portland and Lewiston handed the Rams their two defeats. Even now, many consider that the Portland game was the hardest fought of the season.

This football season at Bangor meant the last for all the regular players with the exception of Ducky Saltzman. Most of them are going to the armed forces, and others to a higher school of learning. Wherever they may go, we are sure that if they use the same spirit they have shown in football, they will be victorious in whatever they do.

Much credit is due to those who helped develop this spirit—Coach Mose Nanigian and Assistant Coach Al Kent. They have given to Bangor High winning football teams, and now the Bangor Rams are one of the most feared and respected football teams in the state.

Boys' Basketball

THE basketball team broke even this season with eight victories and eight defeats. In his debut as basketball mentor, Al Kent had only two regulars from last year's team, Fibber Magee and Lefty Jacobs, who are forwards. Shad Nelson up from the Javees filled in one guard post, and, after much shifting around, Chuck Farnsworth gained the other guard position; however, Porky Burr often capably substituted for him. Paul Doughty held down the center spot, with Bill Daley filling in when needed. Bobby Graffam and Forrest Shumway saw much action in the forward posts.

With this combination, Coach Kent had speed, aggressiveness, and shooting power, but the team was hampered by the lack of height. Despite this hindrance, the Rams looked like champs many times; however, they were very changeable, and often turned in very poor performances. They gave their best exhibition of basketball at Winslow, where many fans claimed them to be the best team to play on that court for years.

Next year looms as a big one for Bangor in basketball; back from the varsity will be Chuck Farnsworth, Paul Doughty, Bobby Graffam, Bill Daley, Porky Burr, Forrest Shumway, Will Dymond, and Duck Saltzman and from that superb, undefeated Jayvee team will be a host of classy ball players.

Second row: Willard Pierce, Owen Bridgham, Terence Hinckley, Donald Wood, Donald Bailey, John Wise, Elden Leighton, and Lewis Magee.
Third row: Forrest Parsons, Joseph Petterson, Morris Pilot, Charles Paine, Randolph Moores, Warren Young, Crossland Goode, and Sergeant, Frank Donchez.

Officers' Club

THE Officers' Club has had a large membership this year because of war conditions, with many boys wanting to be as well prepared as possible for the service. The officers elected in September were as follows: President, Robinson Speirs; Vice President, Robert Daigle; Secretary-Treasurer, Lewis H. Magee.

An addition to the R. O. T. C. uniform, as introduced by the Officers' Club, was the shoulder insignia for identification, a ram's head, designed by Carol Chadeayne '44, made up in maroon and white and worn by all the Battalion.

The traditional dances were sponsored by the Officers' Club—the Blue and Gold Dance in November, the Mid Year Hop in January, at which the two honorary officers, Honorary Lieut. Colonel Betty Higgins, and Honorary Major Ann Woodman were presented with compacts decorated with Army insignia.

The second annual Battalion Review was held in the Assembly Hall on April 8-9, before an audience of military guests, the School Board, parents, teachers, and interested citizens, all of whom praised the program highly.

The annual War Department Inspection and Parade on May 20, followed by the Annual Military Ball on Friday evening, May 21, concluded the formal activities for the year.

The Officers' Club is already represented in the Army by Carl Dahlberg, Signal Corps, Fort Monmouth, N. J., and Newell G. Horr, Air Corps, Griger Field, Spokane, Washington, both of whom left school in January upon their induction.

B. H. S. Rifle Club

THE end of the Rifle Club's current season, which terminated in May, brought to a close an eventful year. After getting off to a good start by winning the first match with the Penobscot Valley Rifle and Pistol Club and winning first place for the third consecutive year in the 1st Service Command Intercollegiate Matches, one member was seriously injured in an automobile accident. This resulted in Team No. 1 of the William Randolph Hearst Match being disqualified; however, team No. 2 came through to win third place. The season as a whole was fairly successful.

The war has had its effect on the Rifle Club, just as it has on other activities. This year there were no medals awarded to winners of the 1st Service Command match; instead, each man will receive a certificate from the War Department.

The Club would like to express its sincere gratitude to Sgt. Frank Donchez for his coaching. For it was only through his help that the club has ever amounted to anything. Always willing to help a person interested in making something out of his shooting, the Sergeant is the respected friend of every member.

Twirling Squad

AS a baton twirling group, these girls have been rated among the best in the state. In previous years they have appeared at music festivals and other similar exhibitions.

In their gay costumes, their batons spinning, the girls are always a hit in the street parades as they strut out in front of the band.

Next year, more girls are urged to join the Bangor High School Squad to keep the batons whirling after the 1943 graduates have strutted off the school scene. Bernice White, the leader, is one of the four seniors. Bernice, a member since her freshman year, became head twirler in the fall of 1941 and has given many brilliant performances at nearly every football and basketball game since then.

Grace Carlisle and Rita Chaput have also been members of the squad since they started high school. Barbara Buck made her first appearance with the squad at the start of the 1941 season. The four seniors also are twirlers with the Veterans' Kiltie Band.

Harriet Varney and Gloria Woodward are the two junior members who will continue the eagerly anticipated performances at the games.

Homec Club

THE Homec Club of Bangor High School has done many things of interest this year. Two very enjoyable parties were held, one at Halloween and one at Christmas time. At Thanksgiving a basket of food to which each girl contributed was given to a needy family.

The girls have made 24 Red Cross duffle bags for men in the Army. With money which the club earned, a very beautiful picture called "The Virgin" was purchased for the club room. It is a hand colored photographic copy of the painting by Abbott Thayer, an American artist. The original painting hangs in the Freer Gallery of Art, Washington, D. C. Material for new flowered curtains was purchased and made up by members of the club.

Harriet Travis, first president of the club this year, was succeeded by Victoria Wozneak, Other officers were: Alice Kilby, Secretary; Catherine Trenholm, Treasurer; Eleanor Dolan, Recorder; Althea Meservey, Member at-large.

Second row: Miss Ruth Crosby, Joan Weed, Mildred Smith, Patricia Millette, Margery Bell, Frances Hunt, Geraldine Easler.

Third row: Dorris Dobson, Ernestine Sullivan, Adell Weed, Carolyn Snow, Otilie Simpson, Phyllis Caine, Charlotte Clark.

Dramatic Club

BECAUSE of wartime activities at B. H. S., the Dramatic Club's work has been somewhat limited. On Dec. 4, the 3-Act play "Heroes Limited" was produced under the excellent guidance of Miss Evelyn Hancy. The cast was as follows:

Jim Haywood	..... Morris Pilot
Elizabeth Haywood	..... Fern Carson
Gwen Haywood	..... Barbara Mills
Annie Andrews	..... Edith Bettelheim
Leroy Haywood	..... Joseph Taylor
Aunt Ella Witherspoon	..... Jeannette Smith
Uncle Billy Chapman	..... John W. Ballou
Joan Anthony	..... Evelyn Pelky
Bob Trowbridge	..... Robert Berry
Eleanor Price	..... Anne Knowlton
Bruce Shaler	..... Robert Taylor
Speed Curtis	..... James Glencross
Betty Terry	..... Dawn Moores
Ed Lyon	..... Richard Giles

The officers for this year are as follows:

President	..... Harry Graves
Vice-President	..... Marydel Coolidge
Secretary	..... Barbara Mills
Treasurer	..... Jack Lord

Glee Club

THE Glee Club started rehearsing as soon as the former members and a few new ones could be brought together in the fall.

Jean Chisholm was appointed manager.

Under the supervision of Miss Dorothea Hopkins, the club progressed so rapidly that plans were made to have the group sing at the Symphony House. Unfortunately these had to be cancelled. Plans were also made to have us sing over the radio, but because of Miss Hopkins' resignation at the half year, these could not be carried out.

The Glee Club put on the "Staggo Barn Dance" in October. Splendid music was furnished by the Maine Bears who contributed toward making the dance successful.

Donald Holmes had charge of the entertainment. In the early part of the evening his attractive young sister, Donna, played the accordion and sang. Later in the program Waldo Robinson sang.

The refreshment committee sold coca-cola and other cold drinks. The committee tried to get ice cream to sell but it was not able to on account of the war.

In November, eight of the glee club members sang over WABI, representing Bangor High School's part in the program for penny milk for school children.

At the beginning of the second semester, Mr. Donald Lewis, formerly of Presque Isle, took over supervision of the club. Rehearsals have been held in spite of the shortened extra curricula schedule, and interest among the members is high.

Second row: Anna St. Onge, Kathleen Nickerson, Loraine Corey, Marion Keith, Hildreth Simpson, Leatrice Daggett, and Lois Nix.

Third row: Jean Chisholm, Marion Grant, Nina Hazen, Joan Durgin, and Jacqueline Ranks.

Public Affairs Club

UNDER the leadership of Richard Giles, the regular monthly meetings of the Public Affairs Club were held. The program dealing with national topics, usually presented in panels with discussions from the floor, was enjoyed by its large membership of 160. In February, a skit entitled "The Smith Family and The Ration Book" was given. In the cast were Harry Graves, the storekeeper: Richard Giles, Mr. Smith; Joan Ambrose, Mrs. Smith; Ferne Carson, Mary Smith; Joseph Gartley, Johnny Smith and Baby Dimple Smith; borrowed from the Domestic Science Department. Barbara Mills read a beautiful tribute to Lincoln from the New York Times Magazine. It may be mentioned here that this year has seen two original skits written and given by the club. The earlier one in the fall was on Man-Power for Civilian and Army needs. This was written by Howard Gotlieb. This type of program is gaining in popularity, as it develops the dramatic instinct. The club used also the survey in September on attitudes toward the war and its problems. This survey was extended to the entire enrollment of the school.

In March a problem was presented to a group of faculty advisors of extra-curriculum activities. This was to consider which extra-curricula activities could be set aside for the new demands made by the war for more time to be devoted to the physical fitness program, for first aid, nutrition and other allied subjects. In other words, no time could be given on school time for the clubs. The sponsor of this club was willing to give up the few more meetings left in the present school year for these reasons: the Debate Club topics for the Bates League Program and other such programs fell naturally also into the field of the Public Affairs Club; thus the two clubs were simply duplicating the programs. The same pupils who were debaters were very active members of this club; finally the current topics are given much discussion Fridays in the Social Studies Classes.

The club feels that the United Nations program given in the Assembly, March 26 was their March effort as so many members took part in it.

Already the sponsor of the club Miss Irene Cousins has some very definite plans of the Public Affairs group of next year, plans that will meet the requirements of our War Time day. The democratic procedure and program of this club, must be carried on as one line of home defense.

Girls' Hockey

Last fall about seventy-five enthusiasts turned out for hockey. The standing of the teams was:

	Won	Lost	Tied

Girls' Basketball

IN December the sportings began basketball practice which continued until the first of March. Then the games started in earnest. There were eight teams in the beginning, but two of them were eliminated so that in the tournament were two teams representing the sophomores, two the juniors, and two the seniors.

The senior white team was really beautiful to watch; there was such smooth co-ordination. They proved to be the winning team but had some close competition from the junior blues.

Those juniors are really good, and, in another year, any other team will undoubtedly not be able to stand up in comparison with them.

Girls on the All-Bangor Basketball team which was coached by Joan Ambrose, Prudy Speirs, Betty Higgins, and Anne Woodman, were: Evelyn Foster, Barbara Watters, Kathleen Downes, Jacqueline Ranks, Shirley Castner, Ann Connors, Constance Coleman, Hope Redman, Prudy Speirs, Betty Higgins, and Anita Broder.

Members of the other teams were: Senior Red: Joyce Marsh, Captain; Fay Jones, Marydel Coolidge, Sonya Cohen, Clarice Jellison, Jeanne Heartz, Pauline Telfer, Geraldean Hurd, Winifred Paulin, Constance Davis, and Barbara Mills.

The record of the Senior White team was:

Bangor High School Band

The past season has been an unusually busy one for the band. In addition to the customary appearances at the football and basketball games, there have been drills in connection with the ROTC. The preliminary inspection exhibition in April was conducted in a first class manner, and brought forth many compliments. Col. McCormick's patient and persistent work with the band, and the cooperation of student leader Robert Cameron, gave that unit a prominent part in the exhibition and at the annual May Inspection.

The band has held its regular rehearsals throughout the season and took part in all civic and patriotic parades. Music was furnished for a Red Cross Nurses' graduation and for several assemblies.

Orchestra

THE Bangor High School Orchestra got off to a gala start last fall by sponsoring "Ye Staggo Barne Dance" in conjunction with the Girls' Glee Club. The dance was a big success and was well attended. Sammy Saliba's Orchestra furnished the music.

This year the orchestra began its activities under the direction of Miss Dorothea Hopkins, who ably conducted for the first semester. Following her resignation, Mr. Donald Lewis, who was previously associated with the music department of the Presque Isle High School, came to Bangor and became our conductor for the remainder of the year.

The orchestra made its first public appearance in December at the school play, "Heroes Limited," given by the Dramatic Club. One of the outstanding selections was "Oriental Patrol." The color and tempo of the piece was brought out by the string section with its rhythmic pizzicato.

The orchestra also played in March at the Junior Exhibition. Two of the numbers played were "Themes from Tchaikowsky's Concerto" and selections from "Scheherazade" by Rimsky-Korsakoff. Each section of the orchestra, strings, wood-winds, and brasses, contributed to the tune and harmony of the compositions.

The orchestra will close an active year by playing at graduation. All the members of the orchestra have had a pleasant and profitable year under the leadership of Miss Hopkins and Mr. Lewis.

Latin Club

THE B. H. S. Latin Club began the year with cheerful prospects. An excellent group of officers keenly interested in the welfare of the club, took hold of affairs with vast vi virtuteque.

These officers were as follows:

Consuls:	{ Edith Strout Gardner Moulton
Quaestor:	Richard Sprague
Praetor:	Barbara Patterson
Aediles	{ Annie-Jane Philbrick Forrest Nelson
Tribunes:	{ Jack Nickerson Anne Knowlton Joyce Marsh
Curator:	Fay Jones

But alas! The Fates are stronger than the gods or even the officers of Latin Club. And this ancient and honorable institution in January became a casualty of World War No. 2, thus sharing the fate of several other organizations of the school.

However, think not that Latin Club is dead. It is but dormant, and will experience a resurrection and a new lease on life when happier days come again. Just when that will be, we cannot say. But we fervently hope that the old lady was wrong who said, "The duration is going to be a whole lot longer than the war."

what she willed. Hers is the personality of the teacher and the scholar. Happiness to her is a life of uninterrupted reading, studying, and writing. Happily, her great gift is a tremendous will to work.

The democracies had been her yardstick in reforming China. Then came war and sad realization that China was not alone in her short-comings. The Madame wrote—speeches, letters, articles. Hurriedly compiled by the government into Messages in War and Peace, these writings reveal her character and the maturity developed under the wear of war.

The world will take courage from the peace of spirit she has acquired through endurance. Perhaps through her the world will see and understand the China that she is. On her concept of concerted effort, nations will rise with her above bitterness in building a better world.

Potently charming, brilliantly subtle, Madame Chiang Kai-shek is a woman. Symbol of a nation emergent, she is a statesman with a world ideal.

Student Council

At the organization meeting of the Student Council of Bangor High School the following officers were chosen:

President.....John Ballou

Vice President.....Robert Saltzman

Secretary.....Prudy Speirs

Treasurer.....Jack Lord

Faculty advisors for the year were Dean Rachel Conner and Mr. Fred Pinkham.

The main theme of the Student Council this year was the support of the war effort. The highlight of the year's activities came in April with the Second War Loan Drive when B. H. S. went over the top, buying $3846.05 in stamps and bonds, and winning for the school the Minute Man Flag for 99% student participation. Members of the Council organized the drive and sold bonds at a booth situated in the first floor front corridor.

Throughout the school year, representatives of the Council have encouraged and managed the sale of war stamps and the collection of fats, stockings, keys, etc. for the war effort. Clifton Eames, a sophomore representative of the Council, has been the able assistant of Miss Irene Cousins, who has had charge of the stamp drive. Also the Council has been 100% behind the Victory Corps.

The Council has taken over the choosing of cheerleaders for next year, and it has passed a bill authorizing boys to be on the cheerleader squad.

Assemblies have been controlled by the Council this year, and a committee from the Council has met with the faculty advisor in charge of each assembly and offered its criticisms and suggestions. The Fun Assembly was entirely a Student Council-written and -produced assembly.

Bob West and Robert Saltzman, two representatives from the Council, attended the Student Council Convention in Augusta, and they brought back many new ideas and suggestions for the organization.

This was one of the most successful years in the history of the Student Council, and, with the emphasis on cooperation, the Council has received unyielding and wholehearted support from both the office and the faculty.

3. Pay your debts and protect your assets.
4. Control your unnecessary spending.

A sound supplementary personal Victory Program is voluntarily to spend less, save more, and get out of debt, as the government spends more and goes into greater debt. The first and best use of an increased current income is to pay existing debts and protect what is owned or acquired against the uncertainties of the times. Controlled expenditures are necessary to provide the savings needed to carry on the war program, and meet the problem of higher personal taxes.
