

1897

The Penobscot Exchange

Fred G. Moon

James W. Cratty

Follow this and additional works at: https://digicom.bpl.lib.me.us/books_pubs

Recommended Citation

Moon, Fred G. and Cratty, James W., "The Penobscot Exchange" (1897). Books and Publications. 259.
https://digicom.bpl.lib.me.us/books_pubs/259

This Book is brought to you for free and open access by the Special Collections at Bangor Community: Digital Commons@bpl. It has been accepted for inclusion in Books and Publications by an authorized administrator of Bangor Community: Digital Commons@bpl. For more information, please contact ccoombs@bpl.lib.me.us.

Penobscot Exchange

"Where the Traveler's Every Comfort is Assured"

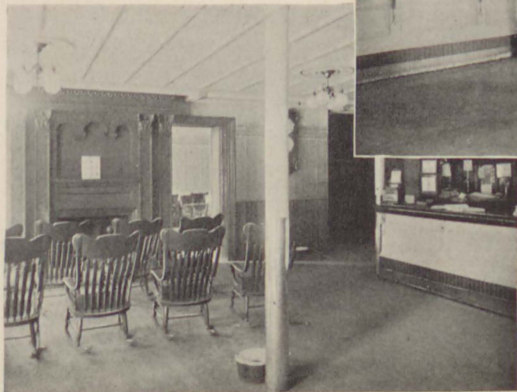

The Penobscot Exchange

BANGOR, MAINE

MOON & CRATTY, PROPRIETORS

FROM all logical standpoints, it would seem that the "leading hotel" in a place must be the one whose service is so excellent as to lead guests to come again.

It is on this basis that the Penobscot Exchange has come to be popularly known as the leading hotel in Bangor.

Two Views of the Office

Everything in and about the house, and everything connected with the service is of the order that makes guests want to come again.

The "up to the minute" idea prevails everywhere in the Exchange, from basement to top floor, from parlor to kitchen, and even down to the railroad stations where the Exchange hacks meet all trains.

The Penobscot Exchange is a big house, only a block away from the Eastern railway station where all traffic goes out of Bangor to the north and east.

It has 150 rooms, all handsomely furnished and made attractive and comfortable in every way.

Nearly every room has its own private bath and shower.

Upper floor rooms are just as accessible as the first, thanks to a prompt elevator service.

Neat and commodious writing desks offer convenient facilities for correspondence in the privacy of one's own room, although there are ten large individual desks always ready for use in the public writing room on the ground floor.

The Dining Room

The Exchange has a beautifully furnished ladies' parlor; a commodious reading room; large and well lighted sample rooms; and other special apartments for the convenience of its guests.

Also an office of splendid size, handsomely appointed, comfortably furnished, with a hospitable and huge fireplace taking up nearly one-half of one end of the room.

Then there is the spacious dining hall of the Exchange; a most attractive, most "appetizing" room, where an unsurpassed cuisine and service are maintained all the year around.

All of which is most important, for nothing is so discomforting to the traveling public as poor food and poor table service.

The fact that the Exchange has just been newly fitted and furnished is another strong point in its favor as a hostelry of the most modern sort.

A Pleasant Chamber on the Second

You are glad to know these things, of course ; glad to know that Bangor has such an enterprising, progressive hotel, and that it is so admirably able to satisfy the public's every desire.

But you will be even more glad when you have stopped with us a while, and made an actual test of our hospitality.

Our door swings in. The splendid equipment of our whole house is here to give you satisfaction. Our hacks meet all trains.

Rates. $2.00 to $4.00 per Day.

The PENOBSCOT EXCHANGE,

MOON & CRATTY, PROPRIETORS,

Exchange Street,

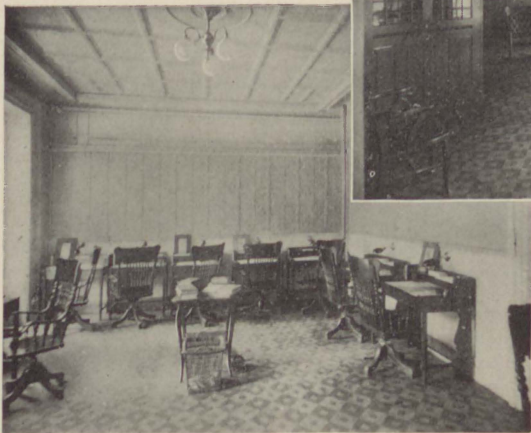

BANGOR, MAINE.

A Commodious Suite

The Ladies' Parlor

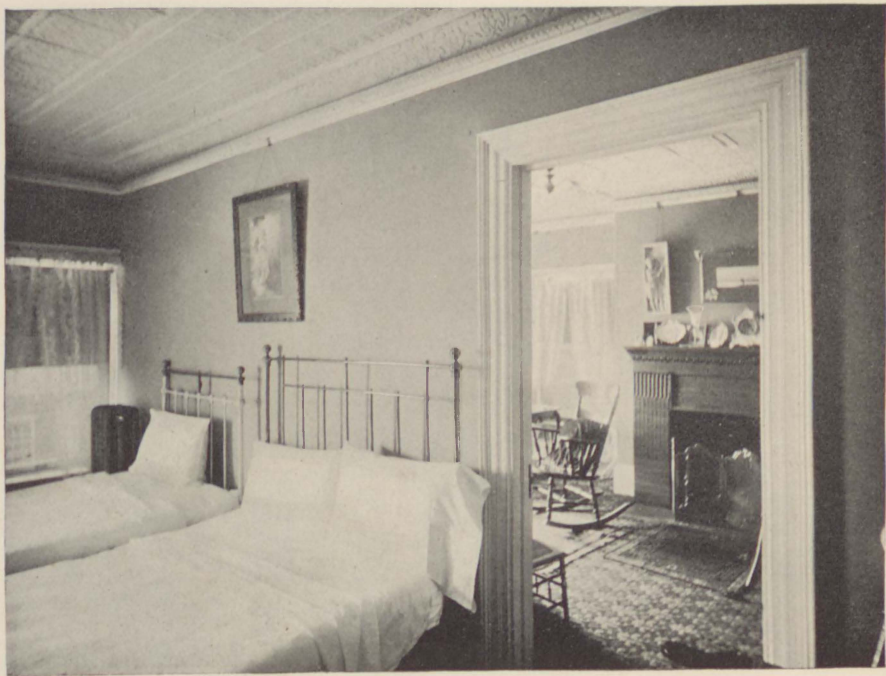

¶ The Writing Room

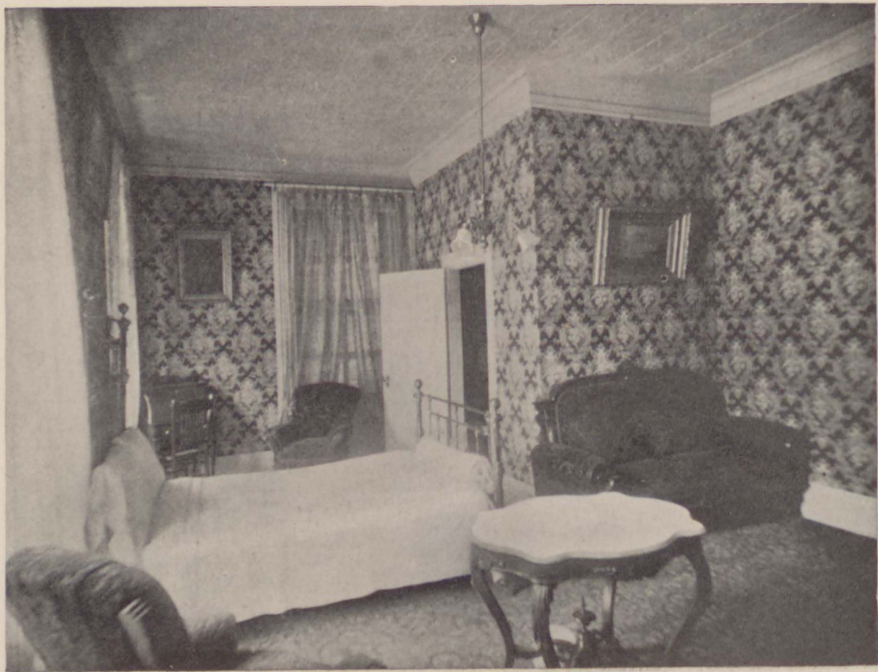

The Reading Room

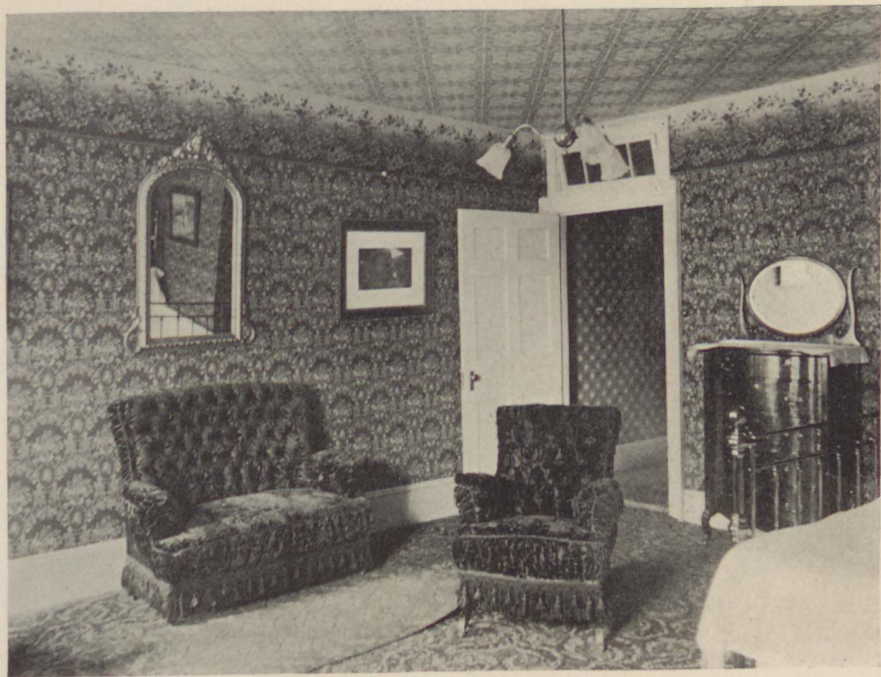

It's Handsome; It's Homelike; It's Quite Ideal

One of the Exchange's Cosiest Suites

An Attractive Lower Floor Chamber

Newly Furnished; Pretty, Isn't It?

A Cosy Corner Room

