BANGOR MOVES TO HEAD OFF THE GRIP

Board of Health Orders Closing of Schools, Churches, Theatres, Clubs and Other Places of Public Assemblage—Stitch in Time Policy Adopted After Conference.

Influenza, or grip, has not as yet become epidemic in Bangor, but the board of health, believing that it is far better to apply the proverbial ounce of prevention now than the pound of cure later, on Monday decided to do everything possible at once to save the city from such a wave of the disease as has swept other places, and to that end issued an order closing until further notice all churches, schools, theatres, club and lodge rooms, dance halls and other places where people gather in considerable numbers and in close contact. The schools will close at noon today. All theatres closed last night with the exception of the Bijou, which will be allowed to play out the Chin Chin engagement, closing with tonight's performance. The length of the closing period will depend upon developments. The danger of grip epidemic may be over in a week, or it may persist. The board of health will determine the limit of safety.

Dr. H. D. Worth of East Corinth, member of the state board, concurred in the decision of the local board, acting with the latter in a conference at which the decision was reached.

The proceeding was the culmination of a meeting held in the common council chamber Monday afternoon, at which Mayor Woodman presided and at which there were present the members of the school board, Supt. Wormwood, Principal Eaton of the high school, Principal Allen of the Hannibal Hamlin school, Principal Poole of the Lincoln school, Stephen Boggett, representing the Bijou and Park theatres, and others interested.

The mayor said that he had received reports that numerous cases of influenza, or grip, exist in Bangor, and requests that some action be taken by the authorities to prevent the disease becoming epidemic here. No one seems to have any definite information on the subject. Half a dozen physicians interviewed said that they were treating one to seven cases each. Current report has it that there are 200 cases of grip here, but that, doubtless, is an exaggeration born of popular apprehension. At this time of year, especially in a period of such cold, rainy weather as has lately prevailed, there always are many common colds, and in the present excited and nervous state of the public mind all these are indiscriminately catalogued as grip. However, the mayor concluded to refer the question of precautions to the board of health, which has full authority in such matters.

Dr. Worth of the state board said that he was in Portland last week and with other members investigated conditions there, finding 500 cases there. There is no medical inspection in the Portland schools, as is required by law in other cities of the state, someone having placed a joker in the act passed by the legislature excluding cities of over 40,000 population from its provisions, he said. It was decided to close the schools there, as well as theatres, etc. He stated that it is considered that with proper supervision of pupils they are better off in school than out, but the difficulty is to secure proper supervision in school. Teachers are not likely to have the time to inspect the pupils.

Dr. Worth added: "It is wiser to prevent an epidemic from coming than to try to control it after it has come. We think it wiser to close everything that is a source of infection, where people congregate. Influenza comes from personal contact. If we could keep the people from coughing and sneezing they would not spread it. The germs don't last. We can't tell how long the conditions will last, but I believe in preparedness. There is no question but that the people here are exposed to it will get influenza."

Dr. D. A. Robinson of the local board said if inspection is carried out properly in the schools the pupils could be better guarded than they will be in running the streets. People carry the germs in their throats, even when in a well condition, he said, quarantine being of no avail in such cases. People spread it by neglecting to call a doctor. He said the Chinese do some things better than we do, carrying a piece of paper in which to expectorate, while the Japanese wear a respirator over their noses as soon as an epidemic starts.

Dr. Robinson said the government reported eight million cases in Spain and the infection naturally was brought first to our seaport towns, spreading to other sections gradually. He said if the people going to the theatre could be inspected separately theatres could continue, but that is impossible.

Dr. Worth replied to a question put to him, that in his best judgment it would be better to close up every place where people congregate, churches included.

Stephen Boggett, manager of the Bijou and Park theatres, said he represented J. Norman Towle, who was perfectly willing to close the theatres as long as is necessary. Mr. Boggett said: "Our theatres are heated and are warm and comfortable. We think that if we are to close, the churches, schools and dance halls also should be closed. We spray our theatres every day after each performance, keeping the air wholesome. If the epidemic comes by contact it will be of no use to close only the theatres."

Dr. Robinson said he didn't want it understood that spraying was not a necessary part of prevention. He thought the Bangor theatres clean, well ventilated and well cared for. He referred to the fake story about the germs being spread in Aspirin tablets.

Mayor Woodman said he had not notified the clergy to be present, but Rev. Fr. Garrity and Rev. Fr. McCarthy had assured him that they would co-operate in every way in any decision the board of health might make.

DECIDE TO CLOSE.

Dr. Robinson and John Goldthwait of the local board and Dr. Worth then retired for conference and returned soon with the decision as above outlined.

It was stated that after Monday night all theatres would be closed with the exception of the Bijou, which has a contract with the Chin Chin company coming here under heavy expense, and will be allowed to play out the engagement, which closes with tonight's performance.

The schools will close today after the forenoon session, the teachers to be notified to give instruction to their pupils in regard to precautionary measures and proper care.

All clubs, such as the Tarratine and Elks, are affected by the order, and all lodges, churches and places of general assembly.

Dr. Robinson thought a week might possibly show some results.

CARS TO BE VENTILATED.

Orders were issued to the street railway company that the windows of the street cars shall be kept open, in the interest of public health.

CARE IN THE SCHOOLS.

Dr. Augustus O. Thomas, state superintendent of public schools, has sent out a communication to the various superintendents and principals in Maine, calling their attention to the necessity of extreme vigilance during the prevalence of Spanish influenza throughout the country.

"Every effort should be made to guard against the spread through and by means of the schools," says Dr. Thomas in his communication.

"The state department of health has produced a leaflet No. 58, on 'Health of Home and School,' copies of which have already been received. Do not lay this leaflet away, nor simply read it. Acquaint yourself thoroughly with all its suggestions and remember this is one of the important things needing attention.

"Instruct, or have your teachers instruct, all pupils who show symptoms of colds or of the disease to remain out of school. Prevention is better than cure. If the trouble becomes prevalent close the schools until the danger is averted.

"The prevalence of this epidemic will offer an opportunity for brief talks on public health and sanitation. Instruct pupils to remain away from public places and off the streets.

BANGOR FALTERS ON LIBERTY LOAN

Total Sales Estimated at $340,000—Teams Luncheon at Chamber of Commerce Rooms. Additional Committees Appointed. Work Will Be Pushed Hard Until Campaign Ends.

The total subscriptions in Bangor to the Fighting Fourth Liberty Loan up to 3 p. m., on Monday amounted to $259,650, this sum including what had been received at the local banks and by solicitors.

The amount was increased later in the day by returns coming in from solicitors, not tabulated, but estimated at between $70,000 and $80,000.

The total mentioned was subscribed by 690 persons or concerns.

Bangor is far behind what was expected of it in the first days of the drive and must show better results to place it in line with previous endeavors. The canvassers were busy on Monday and will continue the work with enthusiasm and unabated energy.

TEAMS HAD LUNCHEON

A very interesting meeting of the soliciting committees was held in the rooms of the Chamber of Commerce on Monday night and a program of speech making and music was presented. Luncheon was served and the solicitors all seemed to be in good spirits and ready to get out and make an active campaign from now until the work is completed.

Col. I. K. Stetson, chairman of the county campaign committee, made a brief address and he was followed by Rev. Alva R. Scott who also talked about the campaign work. Wingate F. Cram made some interesting remarks about the work of the Maine boys in the fighting in France and spoke very highly about the work of the 103d Infantry which contains two companies from Bangor.

Harry W. Libby, in the absence of Franklin E. Bragg, who is ill at his home, lead in the singing. After the short program luncheon was served. Although Bangor's total is now only about $340,000 every effort will now be made to bring Bangor up to the official quota set for it at the beginning of the campaign.

TOWN COMMITTEES.

Additional town committees have been reported to Col. I. K. Stetson, chairman of the county Liberty Loan committee, as follows:

Hampden, A. W. Braithwaite, chairman; Oliver L. Hall, W. C. Stoddard, Elmer Treworgy, Ernest H. Rowell. W. W. Emerson is in charge at Hampden Highlands.

Passadumkeag, E. S. Beane, chairman; L. C. Hathaway, J. H. Laing, F. V. Dennis, G. H. Whittier.

INVESTED CAPITAL

A. M. Russell of Boston, of the Federal Reserve system, who is working in Bangor during the campaign is often asked questions concerning the matter of invested capital and he gives the following decision on that question which is of interest to many business concerns; as issued by the New England Liberty Loan Committee:

It has already been demonstrated under the existing law that very marked advantages accrue to corporations by holding securities which may be included in computing "invested capital." It has been demonstrated that whether or not a security counts as invested capital is in many cases more important than the question of income.

Under the pending legislation, whether a corporation requires to figure its tax on the excess profits method or the war profits method, the question of invested capital is of vital importance. Furthermore, the taxation advantages to be derived from invested capital increases directly with the increase in the rates of the tax.

The new Liberty 4s, both under existing law and also under the pending legislation, are expressly included within the class of assets which may be counted in computing invested capital.

Interest from bonds of the Fourth Liberty Loan is entirely exempt from normal income taxes under the provisions of the Bond Act.

NO DEVELOPMENTS IN CAYTING CASE

Sheriff-Elect Fernandez Making Thorough Investigation. Funeral Today.

As yet nothing definite has been ascertained as to who is responsible for the death of Arno B. Cayting, who was found dead on Saturday in a stretch of woods just above Postigan in the town of Greenbush. Sheriff-elect Fernandez who has been busy on the case has been investigating the neighborhood of the crime and everyone who was known to be near the scene of the crime has been closely examined as to any knowledge they might have of what actually transpired but all have shown that they were in no way connected with the deed.

About three and a half miles this side of where Cayting was killed a farmer who had been missing a number of bundles of wheat found them stacked together so as to make a small hut. This hut was lined with daily papers all of recent date. No track of the man who occupied the hut has yet been found.

At present all the clew that the officials working on the case have is the small revolver found near the body, others which might have once existed being destroyed by the heavy rains of early part of the past week. A number of rumors of strange men seen in the vicinity are being thoroughly investigating but nothing very tangible has been unearthed.

vestigated but nothing very tangible has been unearthed.

The funeral services will be held at the late residence in Cumberland street this morning at 10.30 o'clock.

PRIVATE FERGUSON IS CITED FOR BRAVERY

Queen City Boy, Son of Patrick Ferguson, is Recommended for D. S. Cross.

Patrick Ferguson of 373 Broadway received recently the following letter which was most gratifying to him and those concerned.

July 27, 1918.

From 1st Lieut. D. F. McGraw, 103d Inf., C. O. 37MM Battery.

To C. O. 103d Infantry, A. E. F.

Subject Distinguished Service.

In addition to displaying constant courage and calmness on numerous occasions under fire in the Apprenton Forest, Bouconville, Xivary, Belleau Woods, Torcy and Bourches, Pvt. Ferguson, 63848 Joseph, during the engagement near La Sarraine Farm on July 23rd voluntarily rode his horse through a bombardment to carry a message to Sergt. Durant, commanding No. 1 gun, then in action. This man has repeatedly shown an absolute contempt for danger and has on numerous occasions hauled ammunition to exposed positions through bombardments. It is therefore recommended that this man be given the Distinguished Service Cross.

Donald F. McGraw, 1st Lt. 103d Inf. Commanding, 37 MM Battery

His son was always a bright and active lad and is a popular young man here. He is but a boy of twenty now and has been in France over a year. The letter explains fully the spirit and bravery of the boy and he is one of Bangor's best and one that the Queen City will always be proud of.

BEFORE HIS HONOR

Frank E. Tuck of Enfield was before the Bangor municipal court on Monday on charge of failing to have proper registration plates on his automobile, State Inspector Edwin Allen making the complaint. He was fined $5 and costs, which he paid.

Fred Solabia of Bangor, charged with unlawful deposit of liquor, a sheriff's case, had the matter postponed to October 8. Fred Solabia and Dan Sudrosky, charged with maintaining a common nuisance, had the same disposition made of this case.

SPENCER—BRALEY

Archie F. Spencer and Miss Maude H. Braley, both of Veazie, were married Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock by Rev. Edwin C. Brown at his residence, 21 Elm street, in Bangor, the single ring ceremony being used. They were attended by Ernest E. Spencer, a brother of the bridegroom, and Mrs. Ernest C. Spencer, sister of the bride.

Following the ceremony buffet refreshments were served at the home of the bridegroom, only immediate relatives and friends being present. Mr. and Mrs. Spencer will reside at their home in Veazie and they have many friends who wish them happiness in their married life.

LATEST!

MANY KILLED AND INJURED BY MUNITIONS EXPLOSION

PERTH AMBOY, Oct. 4.—Many men were killed and scores of others injured in a tremendous explosion early tonight at the mammoth plant of the T. A. Gillespie Shell-Loading Company at Morgan, near here. This explosion, which shook the countryside for miles around and caused citizens of South Amboy to flee from their homes, was followed by a series of less severe explosions and, by a fire which for hours defied the efforts of fire departments summoned from all nearby cities and towns.

The number of dead and injured cannot be determined until employees of the plant answer a roll call in the morning. Estimates late tonight, however, placed the number of killed at from 50 to more than 100.

The scene at the plant was like a bit of the western front. Seen in the light of the flames were men running madly about, some nursing injuries, while overhead rolled clouds of smoke. Here and there came the roar of shells exploding, like the bark of field artillery.

A young woman employed at the plant as a telephone operator, who probably never expected to be under shell-fire, was the heroine of the fire. With shells bursting around her, she stuck to her post, sending out calls for firemen and doctors. Calmly she gave directions as to the quickest method of reaching the plant.

From all quarters came hysterical women and children, whose husbands or fathers were employed at the works—perhaps in the burning building. The railroad trestle spanning the Raritan river and leading to the plant was black with these figures, who reached the gates of the plant, only to be turned back by the soldiers who were quickly summoned from camps nearby. The plant, which is being operated for the government by the Gillespie Company, employing several thousand men and women, working in three shifts, but officials said that tonight there were only about 500 men at work when the explosion occurred.

Explanation regarding the cause of the explosions vary, but according to one account excessive heat was applied to a vat of T. N. T. Another account had it that a shell which was being lifted fell and exploded.

The first blast was terrific. It shattered nearly all the glass in South Amboy, one and a half miles away, and was felt for a radius of nearly ten miles.

Calls for fire apparatus and medical assistance were at once sent to other communities. Late tonight the fire was still burning, but was said to be under control.

BANGOR'S BATTLE WITH THE GRIP

Disease Now Subject to Quarantine—Fewer Than 200 Cases Here—Shun Sneezers

Physicians' reports to the board of health in regard to the extent of the prevalence of influenza, or grip, indicate that there are fewer than 200 cases in the city.

Some sudden attacks have been reported. In one case a young woman working in a Main street business house was seized with a hemorrhage of the lungs just as she was about to leave work in search of a physician, having remarked a few moments before that she did not feel very well.

On Monday the board of health will make a complete canvass of the situation, calling up every physician in the city, thus ascertaining whether or not there has been any increase.

There has been a very large demand at the Bangor drug stores for remedies which are believed to be efficacious in the treatment of grip. The demand upon the Boston jobbers has been tremendous from all over New England, requiring orders to be placed in New York or farther away.

A Bangor druggist said on Friday that people would do well in these days, instead of wearing camphor bags, as was the old custom, to imitate the people of the tropical countries, who wear bags of spices as a preventive, the bags containing mace, cloves, allspice, etc. He said that in tropical countries there are no epidemics of this nature, the spice trees killing the germs.

Although the order of the board of health closing all churches, schools, theatres, clubs and other places of public assemblage has been published in both daily papers, in terms explicit, emphatic and without any qualification whatever, many persons was, as late as Friday night, so far in the dark on the subject as to ask for and need special, personal instruction and emphatic assurance that the order means exactly what it says—that there has been no modification or exception, and that there will be none until the danger of widespread epidemic has passed.

SUBJECT TO QUARANTINE.

Dr. H. D. Worth of East Corinth of the state health commission, was notified Friday that the state health commission had made influenza a reportable and quarantinable disease, in other words, that physicians must immediately report cases coming under their supervision to the local health authorities, who will forthwith quarantine the home where the disease is present.

"While I have every hope that we shall avert any considerable spread of the epidemic," said Dr. Worth, state health commissioner Friday, "yet I am surprised that people should ask if the period of closing gatherings will be over in a week for if we are proceeding about the business of living normally at the end of a month we may consider ourselves fortunate."

Dr. Worth thinks the Massachusetts epidemic is nearing its height. Asked if he would approve of people going to Massachusetts, he said, Massachusetts, if she wished, could shut Maine people out and he was of the opinion that should Maine shut Massachusetts out it would go far toward averting more serious consequences than those from which we are already suffering. The disease, being, the physicians say, almost entirely one of spread through contact rather than infection, the danger from bodies of people who have died with it, from rooms where they have been, etc., is not as great as in other epidemics as the germ is so short lived in open places, or, after a short time, in rooms.

KEEP AWAY FROM SNEEZERS.

No matter how swiftly influenza appears to spread, there is no reason to assume that the infection is borne on the wings of the wind. There is danger of transmission through the air for only a few feet from the patient, and the well recognized fact that the disease is received by its new victims only by contact or close association with the earlier cases is impressed by the department in Leaflet No. 58, now going out widely to local boards of health, superintendents of schools, manufacturing establishments and the Granges. All these are asked to emphasize the following points:

1. Influenza is purely an infectious disease, spread by contact or close association.

2. The chances for speedy recovery from an attack and of escaping pneumonia which so often follows are better if one's health is kept good by means of a reasonable degree of exercise, and by pure air and sunshine. But these are minor factors in helping to avoid the disease. Example: The more than 40,000 cases thus far among our robust soldier boys in our army camps.

TO LEAD FIGHT ON CASSIDY WILL

Daniel H. Coakley of Boston Retained By Contesting Heirs of $6,000,000 Estate.

The Boston Globe of Friday says: Daniel H. Coakley of Boston has been retained to lead the fight of the heirs of John Cassidy to break the will of the latter, who was one of the largest timberland owners in Maine. Mr. Cassidy left about $6,000,000.

The case was to have gone to trial this week, before the Supreme Court and a jury, but was postponed till the January term, because of the appointment of Judge Deasy, who was chief counsel for the estate, to the Supreme bench.

No one has been selected yet to succeed Judge Deasy. Ex-Atty. Gen. Pat-tangill and Raymond Fellows of Bangor will be associated with Mr. Coakley.

The testator left his estate in trust, naming his son, James W. Cassidy, as trustee. The five children were to get $10,000 a year and on the death of the last child the property was to be distributed among the grandchildren.

Unsoundness of mind and undue influence are the grounds of the contestants. The size of the estate and the character of the testimony tend to make the contest one of the most interesting and sensational that has been held in Maine.

It was estimated that more than 1,000 shots were fired during the rioting, but only meagre reports as to the casualties had been received late tonight.

The riot started when a white steward in a restaurant slapped a negro woman.

BANGOR'S BATTLE WITH THE GRIP

Disease Now Subject to Quarantine — Fewer Than 200 Cases Here—Shun Sneezers

Physicians' reports to the board of health in regard to the extent of the prevalence of influenza, or grip, indicate that there are fewer than 200 cases in the city.

Some sudden attacks have been reported. In one case a young woman working in a Main street business house was seized with a hemorrhage of the lungs just as she was about to leave work in search of a physician, having remarked a few moments before that she did not feel very well.

On Monday the board of health will make a complete canvass of the situation, calling up every physician in the city, thus ascertaining whether or not there has been any increase.

There has been a very large demand at the Bangor drug stores for remedies which are believed to be efficacious in the treatment of grip. The demand upon the Boston jobbers has been tremendous from all over New England, requiring orders to be placed in New York or farther away.

A Bangor druggist said on Friday that people would do well in these days, instead of wearing camphor bags, as was the old custom, to imitate the people of the tropical countries, who wear bags of spices as a preventive, the bags containing mace, cloves, allspice, etc. He said that in tropical countries there are no epidemics of this nature, the spice trees killing the germs.

Although the order of the board of health closing all churches, schools, theatres, clubs and other places of public assemblage has been published in both daily papers, in terms explicit, emphatic and without any qualification whatever, many persons was, as late as Friday night, so far in the dark on the subject as to ask for and need special, personal instruction and emphatic assurance that the order means exactly what it says—that there has been no modification or exception, and that there will be none until the danger of widespread epidemic has passed.

SUBJECT TO QUARANTINE

only by contact or close association with the earlier cases is impressed by the department in Leaflet No. 58, now going out widely to local boards of health, superintendents of schools, manufacturing establishments and the Granges. All these are asked to emphasize the following points:

1. Influenza is purely an infectious disease, spread by contact or close association.

2. The chances for speedy recovery from an attack and of escaping pneumonia which so often follows are better if one's health is kept good by means of a reasonable degree of exercise, and by pure air and sunshine. But these are minor factors in helping to avoid the disease. Example: The more than 40,000 cases thus far among our robust soldier boys in our army camps.

TO LEAD FIGHT ON CASSIDY WILL

danger of widespread epidemic has passed.

SUBJECT TO QUARANTINE.

Dr. H. D. Worth of East Corinth of the state health commission, was notified Friday that the state health commission had made influenza a reportable and quarantinable disease, in other words, that physicians must immediately report cases coming under their supervision to the local health authorities, who will forthwith quarantine the home where the disease is present.

"While I have every hope that we shall avert any considerable spread of the epidemic," said Dr. Worth, state health commissioner Friday, "yet I am surprised that people should ask if the period of closing gatherings will be over in a week for if we are proceeding about the business of living normally at the end of a month we may consider ourselves fortunate."

Dr. Worth thinks the Massachusetts epidemic is nearing its height. Asked if he would approve of people going to Massachusetts, he said, Massachusetts, if she wished, could shut Maine people out and he was of the opinion that should Maine shut Massachusetts out it would go far toward averting more serious consequences than those from which we are already suffering. The disease, being, the physicians say, almost entirely one of spread through contact rather than infection, the danger from bodies of people who have died with it, from rooms where they have been, etc., is not as great as in other epidemics as the germ is so short lived in open places, or, after a short time, in rooms.

KEEP AWAY FROM SNEEZERS.

No matter how swiftly influenza appears to spread, there is no reason to assume that the infection is borne on the wings of the wind. There is danger of transmission through the air for only a few feet from the patient, and the well recognized fact that the disease is received by its new victims and a jury, but was postponed until the January term, because of the appointment of Judge Deasy, who was chief counsel for the estate, to the Supreme bench.

No one has been selected yet to succeed Judge Deasy. Ex-Atty. Gen. Pattangall and Raymond Fellows of Bangor will be associated with Mr. Coakley.

The testator left his estate in trust, naming his son, James W. Cassidy, as trustee. The five children were to get $10,000 a year and on the death of the last child the property was to be distributed among the grandchildren.

Unsoundness of mind and undue influence are the grounds of the contestants. The size of the estate and the character of the testimony tend to make the contest one of the most interesting and sensational that has been held in Maine.

Martin C. Dilworth Dead

Was a 96 Years Old Civil War Veteran and Printer—Formerly of Belfast

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., Oct. 2.—Martin C. Dilworth, 96, one of the oldest Civil War veterans in the country, died yesterday at his home in Florence. He was born in Cork, Ireland, and came to this country when young. He served four years in the 6th Maine Heavy Artillery. He had been commander of the Grand Army Post, Belfast, Maine. He was a printer.

He is survived by three sons, William and Oscar Dilworth of Madison, Me., and Charles Dilworth of Norwalk, Conn., two daughters, Mrs. Edward E. Dragon of this city and Mrs. Charles O. Parsons, and one sister, Mrs. P. H. McDonald of Brooklyn. The body will be taken to Belfast for burial.

PLENTY OF DEER BUT FEW HUNTERS

Big Woods Full of Fat Partridges—Game Season Will Be Dull One.

AUGUSTA, Me., Oct. 1.—Maine's game supply is the best at this time in several years. This is the opinion of the Fish and Game department. The opinion is formed after considering reports from wardens and guides in all sections of the state. This is more or less of a surprise. The severe weather of last winter, following a very hard winter for game in 1916-17 and a poor summer and fall last year, had been expected to make havoc in the game situation.

This applies in particular to partridge. In the bird hunting season of 1917, partridge were very scarce and few were seen. The explanation for the marked change in conditions this year by the department is: The birds went back onto high ground and wintered there. As a result they withstood the rigors of the cold months of 1917-18; that they had a good hatching season this spring and came thru the summer in good condition.

But whatever the reason, all wardens and guides report that the big woods are full of these birds. It is true that in the open country and near the roads easily reached by automobile they have been well killed off and are not at all plentiful.

Probably no news of the hunting region will give more satisfaction to sportsmen than the foregoing statement relative to partridge. This is the game bird which hunters most enjoy going after. It takes a deal of skill to hunt them and there is no better dish for hungry man than partridge prepared in any of the many ways in which it can be cooked. Those hunters who go into the woods of a fall and come back without bagging any partridge, usually feel they have had poor luck, even though securing their full allowance of deer.

DEER IN LARGE NUMBERS

Deer, too, are reported as being very plentiful. These animals had a bad season last winter. The deep snow, severe cold and heavy storms made their securing food difficult, with the result that they came out in the spring in poor flesh. Wardens and others sending reports to the department at Augusta, states that every deer they see is sleek and fat, indicating an abundance of food this summer.

According to all reports the deer are holding their own. In some places where they have appeared, during previous years, to be disappearing they are now, evidently, coming back.

Woman, Never Late in 54 Years, Quits U. S. Service

WASHINGTON, Oct. 2.—At the age of eighty-seven, and after fifty-four years of service with the Treasury Department, during which time she has never been late, Eliza R. Hyde, has resigned. Miss Hyde says she "would like more leisure during the remaining years of my life on this earth sphere."

Her action and her remarkable term of service has drawn a letter of commendation from W. G. McAdoo, Secretary of the Treasury, in which he outlines the following remarkable things in the career of this faithful government employee:

"The books of the Treasury also show that for the last thirteen consecutive years, or since 1905, you have not lost a single day from sickness, but have, in fact, in these years given to the government a portion of the annual leave to which you were entitled. For thirty years of service you were not absent a day on account of sickness and, what is more unusual and indeed truly extraordinary, the records indicate that you have never been late in arriving at the Treasury once throughout the last half century. Such unprecedented promptness is exceedingly creditable to you and you have set an example which is worthy of emulation by all."

REAR ADM'L RODGERS RETURNS TO SERVICE

BOSTON, Oct. 2.—Rear Admiral John A. Rodgers, U. S. N., (retired) 70 years old, and with a notable record in two wars to his credit, returned to the Navy for active service today. Since his retirement eight years ago, Rear Admiral Rodgers has been farming at his country estate in Perryville, Md., but he said today he could not remain out of service with a war going on. Rear Admiral Rodgers had several commands during the Civil War and took part in the destruction of Admiral Cervera's squadron off Santiago in the Spanish-American war. He was commandant of the navy yard at Puget Sound at the time of his retirement in 1910.

After playing in stock companies in Chicago, Boston and New York, he appeared in later years in support of Maude Adams in "L'Aiglon" and in the leading role in "The Thief" and "The Whirlwind."

NO MORE GLOOM IN THE TRENCHES

Jack McAuliffe, Former Lightweight Champion, to Entertain Soldiers for K. of C.

Jack McAuliffe is going over. The former undefeated lightweight champion of the world, who made his home in Bangor when a boy, is going to help the soldiers at the front this winter to pass many a dreary evening with his monologue and songs and as a special attraction a motion picture of his fight with Jim Carney. And McAuliffe will be able to bring many a hearty laugh from the boys in the trenches.

It is now 22 years since McAuliffe retired from the ring and handed the title over to Kid Lavigne along with the championship belt but the same youthful look and kindly smile is carried by Jack and he does not look a day over 35. McAuliffe retired, that is he retired as much as a man of his active manner could, for he has been connected more or less with the ring ever since. And Jack has been somewhat of a traveler ever since so when he crosses the ocean as a part of the Knights of Columbus unit clad in a khaki uniform with the scarlet Knight's shield on the right arm it will be only one of the many interesting stunts he has pulled off.

And through the fleeting years McAuliffe has carried that same charm of personality, his face radiating good nature, the rich brogue, a gift from the old sod, and a thousand incidents of other days that he tells in a humorous manner that is distinctly his own.

Jack will take with him on this trip his sparring partner, Jim Twyford, a picture of the Jim Carney fight, a scrap that bears a prominent place in ring history, a monologue that is all his own and a few songs, if as he says the audience will stand for it.

You couldn't imagine a better gloom chaser than Jack McAuliffe. It's his grin and his jolly round face and the way he looks out on the world as a huge prize ring where the best man wins. Which may also account for the fact that he looks like a man of 35 when he is really somewhere past 50.

BELFAST WILL TAKE ALL PRECAUTIONS

All the dormitories and fraternity houses are filled, and the mess hall is crowded beyond its capacity.

TELEPHONE IN FRANCE FUNNY

Brockton Boy Relates Some of the Intricacies of the System.

Dallas E. White, former telephone installer at Brockton, Mass., but now with the 401st Telegraph Battalion, makes some interesting comparisons of French and American telephone systems in a letter to a friend. He says:

"Measured by United States standards the French telephone system can grow for about fifty years yet and still be inferior to the farmers' lines back in Squeedunk. Even in a town as large as Brockton their central office equipment is very obsolete and in the smaller towns it is not at all uncommon to find an exchange without a single sub-station, the business being entirely toll and the public coming to the office to call their out-of-town friends like we would go to the Western Union to send a message. They use no cross-arm construction, as the wires are all strung on individual brackets and in the towns they don't even bother to set a line of poles, but string the wires from house to house.

"It's a grand and glorious sight to see a French lineman climb a pole for the hooks he uses would give an American hiker the D. T.'s. They resemble in shape our hand-sickle or grass hook, the part corresponding to the handle being the part that is strapped to the instep and on the inside near each tip are three sharp prongs that grip the pole when the hook encircles it. I don't know what they would do if they found a pole too big to be encircled by the hook—get a ladder, I suppose. I've never seen anyone attempt to walk with a pair of them on, but he ought to be about as graceful as a rooster with each spur a foot long.

"The British lines and equipment are more similar to our own. They use cross-arm construction but only four-pin arms, which are much shorter and lighter than ours. The most peculiar thing about their system is the technical expressions they use. Can you imagine a grounded line being 'earthy on one leg' or a solid ground being a 'full earth'? To say that a circuit is open or shorted means nothing to them, but if you tell them it is 'disc'd' or 'looped' you will get their 'right-o old chappie' at once. I was sitting in on the switchboard one evening and had put in a distant call for an American officer when his connection was broken before he had finished. He rang and got the distant operator who happened to be a Tommy. 'You cut me off from Col. ———,' said the officer. 'You're through,' said the Tommy, meaning the connection was re-established. 'I am like h—I, I just started,' was the response.

"I thought I was a Continental operator until I sat in on these wires, but I never happened to run up against the particular brand we have to deal with here. It isn't that the sending is poor, but merely the style of operating. It seems to have a little 'meaning' all its own. I have been here for some weeks now and I am gradually getting accustomed to it. At times I even fancy I almost know what they are sending.

"I am signal master now on the first trick, and like the work very much. I might explain that a signal master is a poor cuss whose only chance of happiness is to be gained through his proficiency in that popular pastime known as 'passing the buck.' When some keen-eyed official receives a message written in a code that 'passeth all understanding' it is up to the signal master to pass the buck to the offending operator or prove conclusively that the line was crossed with the Chinese cable. But it is interesting work for all that, and as Tommy says, the first seven years of any war are always the worst; it may improve as time goes on."

AUSTRIAN PREMIER FULL OF CONFIDENCE

AMSTERDAM, Oct. 2.—Baron Hunsarek in his address to the Austrian lower house of parliament, testified after admitting that the situation resulting from the withdrawal of Bulgaria from the war was grave, but in no wise critical; declared the Teutonic Allies had taken comprehensive military measures to amend the situation.

"We are making good progress," said the premier, "and according to communications from competent quarters I can declare that we have done everything to permit us calmly to face the further development of the Balkan affair. On this front, our troops, standing shoulder to shoulder with the German troops, are splendidly preserving our unshakable alliance."

The premier declared that Austria-Hungary did not intend to abandon its good right to Bosnia and Herzegovina, and that it must be guided by the consideration of the legitimate wishes of the races concerned, while also safeguarding Austrian interests.

"Nobody can force us to relinquish our right," exclaimed the premier. "It can only be done by negotiation, in which case we shall know how to carry our standpoint."

PLENTY OF DEER BUT FEW HUNTERS

Big Woods Full of Fat Partridges—Game Season Will Be Dull One.

AUGUSTA, Me., Oct. 1.—Maine's game supply is the best at this time in several years. This is the opinion of the Fish and Game department. The opinion is formed after considering reports from wardens and guides in all sections of the state. This is more or less of a surprise. The severe weather of last winter, following a very hard winter for game in 1916-17 and a poor summer and fall last year, had been expected to make havoc in the game situation.

This applies in particular to partridge. In the bird hunting season of 1917, partridge were very scarce and few were seen. The explanation for the marked change in conditions this year by the department is: The birds went back onto high ground and wintered there. As a result they withstood the rigors of the cold months of 1917-18; that they had a good hatching season this spring and came thru the summer in good condition.

But whatever the reason, all wardens and guides report that the big woods are full of these birds. It is true that in the open country and near the roads easily reached by automobile they have been well killed off and are not at all plentiful.

Probably no news of the hunting region will give more satisfaction to sportsmen than the foregoing statement relative to partridge. This is the game bird which hunters most enjoy going after. It takes a deal of skill to hunt them and there is no better dish for hungry man than partridge prepared in any of the many ways in which it can be cooked. Those hunters who go into the woods of a fall and come back without bagging any partridge, usually feel they have had poor luck, even tho securing their full allowance of deer.

DEER IN LARGE NUMBERS

Deer, too, are reported as being very plentiful. These animals had a bad season last winter. The deep snow, severe cold and heavy storms made their securing food difficult, with the result that they came out in the spring in poor flesh. Wardens and others sending reports to the department at Augusta, states that every deer they see is sleek and fat, indicating an abundance of food this summer.

According to all reports the deer are holding their own. In some places where they have appeared, during previous years, to be disappearing they are now, evidently, coming back.

NO MORE GLOOM IN THE TRENCHES

Jack McAuliffe, Former Lightweight Champion, to Entertain Soldiers for K. of C.

Jack McAuliffe is going over. The former undefeated lightweight champion of the world, who made his home in Bangor when a boy, is going to help the soldiers at the front this winter to pass many a dreary evening with his monologue and songs and as a special attraction a motion picture of his fight with Jim Carney. And McAuliffe will be able to bring many a hearty laugh from the boys in the trenches.

It is now 22 years since McAuliffe retired from the ring and handed the title over to Kid Lavigne along with the championship belt but the same youthful look and kindly smile is carried by Jack and he does not look a day over 35. McAuliffe retired, that is he retired as much as a man of his active manner could, for he has been connected more or less with the ring ever since. And Jack has been somewhat of a traveler ever since so when he crosses the ocean as a part of the Knights of Columbus unit clad in a khaki uniform with the scarlet Knight's shield on the right arm it will be only one of the many interesting stunts he has pulled off.

And through the fleeting years McAuliffe has carried that same charm of personality, his face radiating good nature, the rich brogue, a gift from the old sod, and a thousand incidents of other days that he tells in a humorous manner that is distinctly his own.

Jack will take with him on this trip his sparring partner, Jim Twyford, a picture of the Jim Carney fight, a scrap that bears a prominent place in ring history, a monologue that is all his own and a few songs, if as he says the audience will stand for it.

You couldn't imagine a better gloom chaser than Jack McAuliffe. It's his grin and his jolly round face and the way he looks out on the world as a huge prize ring where the best men wins. Which may also account for the fact that he looks like a man of 35 when he is really somewhere past 50.

Woman, Never Late in 54 Years, Quits U. S. Service

WASHINGTON, Oct. 2.—At the age of eighty-seven, and after fifty-four years of service with the Treasury Department, during which time she has never been late, Eliza R. Hyde, has resigned. Miss Hyde says she "would like more leisure during the remaining years of my life on this earth sphere."

Her action and her remarkable term of service has drawn a letter of commendation from W. G. McAdoo, Secretary of the Treasury, in which he outlines the following remarkable things in the career of this faithful government employe:

"The books of the Treasury also show that for the last thirteen consecutive years, or since 1905, you have not lost a single day from sickness, but have, in fact, in these years given to the government a portion of the annual leave to which you were entitled. For thirty years of service you were not absent a day on account of sickness and, what is more unusual and indeed truly extraordinary, the records indicate that you have never been late in arriving at the Treasury once throughout the last half century. Such unprecedented promptness is exceedingly creditable to you and you have set an example which is worthy of emulation by all."

Throughout the Country.
Hotels and Cafes Busy.

What is being done by the Y. W. C. A. in Washington, D. C., is typical of its work throughout the country. Much of the work there is done in direct co-operation with the government.

Each of the dormitory buildings which are being put up by the government near the Union Station, for girls who come to the city to work in government offices, will have Y. W. C. A. workers to look after the comforts and recreations of the occupants and provide wholesome entertainment for them.

A Y. W. C. A. hotel for transients, not far from the same location, will provide a place for women and girls while they are finding permanent living quarters.

During the past summer, a recreation field, equipped for outdoor sports had furnished recreation for a host of girls who were strangers in Washington.

Two vacation houses near the city were used by government workers for week-end and holiday visits.

Three Y. W. C. A. cafeterias provide luncheons at reasonable prices for 2000 persons daily and a Y. W. C. A. luncheon service is conducted for girls who cannot leave their offices at mid-day.

Death and Funeral Of Winterport Soldier

WINTERPORT, Oct. 4—The news of the death of Oscar S. Marden came very suddenly. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. John F. Marden, were not aware of his illness but a few hours before receiving a telegram informing them of his death which occurred at Camp Devens on Thursday, Sept. 26.

He rallied from the prevailing influenza but pneumonia claimed him as a victim. He left for Camp early in September. He was a very devoted son, always remained at home as his mother who has been an invalid for several years depended on him daily for many services, but when the call came for more boys he did not try to claim exemption but went cheerfully to the colors as did his brother Victor who is now with the American army in active service in France.

It was easy for him to make friends as he possessed a character of sterling qualities and a sunny disposition. He was 21 years, six months and 16 days of age.

Besides his parents, there are three sisters and three brothers to mourn his death, Mrs. William Collins of Somerville, Mass., Misses Mary and Nellie, LeRoy, Victor and Sewall. The remains were accompanied home by Mechanic William Booker.

Funeral services were held at his parents' home on Monday afternoon, Rev. H. D. Knowles of Newburg officiating. The flowers were very beautiful.

210 Cases in Bangor Now, But There Were 1,500 in 1889—Situation Elsewhere in Maine—Expert Advice on Prevention and Treatment. Rum No Good.

Dr. Daniel A. Robinson, chairman of the Bangor board of health, reports 210 cases of influenza in the city. In five days, which is the usual time required for recovery, the authorities will be able to determine whether the wave of disease is gaining or receding, and whether or not preventive regulations can with safety be relaxed.

In 1889, says Dr. Robinson, there were about 1,500 cases of the grip, or Russian influenza as it was known at that time, in Bangor, and the disease was widespread over the country, although there was no such excitement over it as now. That visitation of 1889 was the first but since then there have been several waves of influenza, or grip as it more commonly is called, and scarcely a year has passed without some cases here.

Grip flourishes most in such cold, rainy weather as has been experienced all over the northeastern states this fall, and in such circumstances precautions should be redoubled. Sunday was a dismal day in Bangor, with all the churches closed, the Sunday closing of places of business in force and the pelting rain making out of door existence miserable. However, there is an end of everything, and if the public will exercise reasonable care in manner of living and in avoidance of infection, the situation is bound to improve shortly. Those who recall the smallpox epidemic of the early seventies, when red flags were flying all over Bangor, will agree that the situation then was vastly more alarming than that now prevailing, and that there is no cause for great alarm or anxiety today. Mental depression is to be avoided by every means. People who dwell upon the subject of disease and feast daily upon the details of its ravages in congested centres, become morbid, and are more likely to fall victims to it themselves than are those who maintain a hopeful and cheerful attitude. Keep smiling. Extreme exhaustion, intemperance and all other excesses should be avoided. The cleanly, well fed, well clothed, careful person is comparatively safe. Be one of that kind, so far as is possible.

250 CASES IN ROCKLAND.
Physicians at Rockland report 250 cases of influenza, mostly of mild nature. Latest reports from that city give three deaths from the disease during the past week. A report is to be made daily of the number of new cases and the number discharged as cured. By order of the board of health all places have been closed.

Brunswick reports about 75 cases and the closing of all public buildings until further notice. No passes are to be issued to the military students at Bowdoin to leave town. At present the health conditions at the college are excellent and the authorities are doing everything possible to keep them so. Rumford places the number of severe cold, influenza, and gripe cases at 1200. There seems to be a slight increase in the number of cases in that town, but not as alarming as during the first stages of the epidemic. All public places have responded willingly to the board of health's orders to close. The schools will remain closed.

150 NEW CASES IN PORTLAND.
According to the statement of Dr. Tetreau of the Board of Health, last evening, there were about 150 new cases of influenza reported to the headquarters during the day Saturday, making the whole number of cases since the breaking out of the epidemic nearly 2,000. But, of this large number only about 40 cases have been proved fatal. Portland has been lucky in the fact that the percentage of deaths from the epidemic has been far lighter than in Massachusetts and other communities to the south of us.

MORE SERIOUS IN BATH.
In Bath, the situation presents a serious problem, a very high percentage of the population have been stricken with the disease in spite of the fact that the city authorities have taken every means of prevention. No doubt, the quick action of the mayor has saved that city from an even worse epidemic than that now being experienced. The Red Cross and other organizations, have been doing splendid work, and latest reports from the shipbuilding city state that it is the general belief that the crest of the influenza and pneumonia wave has passed. Regardless of this opinion there is to be no relaxation in regard to the recent health orders and the people must realize that they must be careful for at least two weeks after all apparent danger has passed.

Spanish influenza, which first appeared in Lewiston in mild form, appeared to be growing in severity on Saturday. Forty new cases were reported in Lewiston, and a correspondingly large number in Auburn. There have been four deaths from the disease in the two places.

DISPEL THESE INFLUENZA FALLACIES.

Don't take up smoking.
Don't look for immunity in the camphor bag.
Don't expect sulphur in your shoes will ward off the plague.
Don't use gargles and sprays.
Wimmiam C. Woodward, M. D.,
Health Commissioner.

ADVICE TO ATTENDANTS.
Influenza is communicable. The contagion is due to the influenza germ. The germ is contained in the secretions from the lungs, mouth and nose. It is spread chiefly by droplets that are expelled by coughing, sneezing, laughing and talking. These are thrown out at the level of the mouth for a distance of several feet and then float for awhile in the air. They are breathed in by a well person who may be near and he is infected in this way. Anyone having the disease, or who possibly may have it, should always hold before his mouth when coughing, etc., a cloth or a piece of paper or something to prevent these droplets escaping into the surrounding air. These cloths, etc., should be burnt or boiled to kill the germs without delay. Burning or boiling will kill the germs.

Anyone attending a person sick with influenza or coming directly into his presence should wear a gauze "mask" over his mouth and nose. The mask must be changed for a new one when wet or every few hours anyway. The used masks should be boiled or burnt. These masks are made of several thicknesses of gauze, or cotton cloth if no gauze is to be had, fastened over the head so as to cover the mouth and nose. The hands should be carefully washed with soap and water immediately after attending anyone sick and always before eating, and wiped on a clean towel or not wiped at all.

GRIP FALLACIES EXPOSED.
That many of the popular notions regarding preventive measures against the "grip" are harmful, and the whole of them are in the class with the rabbit's foot, is the opinion of Dr. Woodward, Boston's health commissioner.

Especially in the case of rum and whiskey, he points out, a man reduces his vitality and thus leaves himself open as an excellent subject for the disease.

"I have actually been asked by liquor interests if I was not back of the widespread rush for rum of late; if, in fact, I did not advocate its use to ward off possible influenza attacks. 'Nothing could be more unwise than the use of liquor, and I would not recommend it under any circumstances.'

"Smoking has no merit as a preventive. If it had, the disease would never have run riot among our soldiers, where smoking is almost universal. The only preventive in smoking might be if an accommodating 'bug' came along and dropped on the lighted end of a cigar or cigarette.

"There is no danger in smoking as a carrier of the disease as far as germs being blown about in the smoke. But there is extreme danger in a carload of men smoking and spitting. The sputum is a very dangerous feature and the crowding together is as bad.

"The camphor bag or camphor in the clothing has absolutely no value whatever.

"Gargles and sprays are liable to irritate and injure the linings of the mouth and nose, which nature has arranged to arrest and destroy germs and so invite infection.

"To avoid infection generally is to keep out of places where people are. Crowds are the greatest spreaders of the disease. The importance of keeping away from crowds cannot be emphasized too strongly.

"Preventive measures are best found in these rules:

"Don't let anyone cough in your face. Keep your mouth shue. Wash your hands frequently. Avoid getting tired—go to bed early. Eat your meals regularly and slowly. If compelled to eat away from home, see that the dishes and cups are clean. Keep where the air is fresh. Keep away from any place where the disease is. If you must go into the presence of the sick, cover your mouth and nose with a mask or some other similar protection—a handkerchief is better than nothing. Wrap up a used mask, etc., in any paper and boil it before using again or burn it."

WHAT TO DO UNTIL THE DOCTOR COMES.

Influenza may begin as a common cold. At the least suspicion of having the disease go to bed and remain there. Take a laxative. Drink much plain water. Take plenty of simple, light food, milk, eggs, toast and similar things. Have plenty of fresh air. Send for a doctor. Stay in bed at least 48 hours after you think you are well. Gargles and sprays are liable to irritate and injure the linings of the mouth and nose, which nature has arranged to arrest and destroy germs, and so invite infection.

If you take these steps—the chief of which is to remain in bed—you will probably not be seriously sick. Go to bed now—not wait until tomorrow.

Even if you discover later you have only a common cold and not influenza, there is no better treatment than to be in bed.

BANGOR TO HAVE BIG WAR ALBUM

To Contain Photographs of All Men in Service—Deposited in Public Library.

Mayor Woodman, who has started a movement for the collection of the photographs of all the Bangor men who have entered the service of the country in the army, navy or other departments, has evolved a system of receipts, in the nature of a roll or honor for those who furnish the portraits. The mayor hopes that a complete collection may be made soon, when it will be deposited in the Public Library as an exceedingly valuable possession for the present and especially for the future.

It is desired that every person who can contribute a photograph do so at the earliest possible time, forwarding same to the mayor's office, or leaving word where it can be obtained if not convenient to send it there.

The form of receipt to be given as adopted is as follows:

The city of Bangor returns grateful acknowledgement to _____ to be included in the "Bangor War Album" deposited at the Bangor Public Library.

JOHN LOUDEN (RIGHT) PEARL B. DAY CO K, 12TH

CALAIS, Oct. 5—Comrades Pearl B. Day and John Louden by a singular coincidence meet in Calais after a period of 54 years, turning back the pages of time to a memorable event on a battlefield of the Civil war.

Pearl B. Day, who is a veteran in his 71st year, was then a private in the 14th Maine regiment and was at the battle of Cedar Creek, Nov. 24th, 1864. On that date, the 12th Maine was also there and during the battle a comrade of Co. Choate was afterwards sent to the Baltimore hospital, where he died ten days later. The body was forwarded to his mother at Milltown, Maine, and the remains buried in the Calais

ADVICE TO ATTENDANTS.

Influenza is communicable. The contagion is due to the influenza germ. The germ is contained in the secretions from the lungs, mouth and nose. It is spread chiefly by droplets that are expelled by coughing, sneezing, laughing and talking. These are thrown out at the level of the mouth for a distance of several feet and then float for awhile in the air. They are breathed in by a well person who may be near and he is infected in this way. Anyone having the disease, or who possibly may have it, should always hold before his mouth when coughing, etc., a cloth or a piece of paper or something to prevent these droplets escaping into the surrounding air. These cloths, etc., should be burnt or boiled to kill the germs without delay. Burning or boiling will kill the germs.

Anyone attending a person sick with influenza or coming directly into his presence should wear a gauze "mask" over his mouth and nose. The mask must be changed for a new one when protection—a handkerchief is better than nothing. Wrap up a used mask, etc., in any paper and boil it before using again or burn it."

WHAT TO DO UNTIL THE DOCTOR COMES.

Influenza may begin as a common cold. At the least suspicion of having the disease go to bed and remain there. Take a laxative. Drink much plain water. Take plenty of simple, light food, milk, eggs, toast and similar things. Have plenty of fresh air. Send for a doctor. Stay in bed at least 48 hours after you think you are well. Gargles and sprays are liable to irritate and injure the linings of the mouth and nose, which nature has arranged to arrest and destroy germs, and so invite infection.

If you take these steps—the chief of which is to remain in bed—you will probably not be seriously sick. Go to bed now—not wait until tomorrow.

Even if you discover later you have only a common cold and not influenza, there is no better treatment than to be in bed.

BANGOR TO HAVE BIG WAR ALBUM

To Contain Photographs of All Men in Service—Deposited in Public Library.

Mayor Woodman, who has started a movement for the collection of the photographs of all the Bangor men who have entered the service of the country in the army, navy or other departments, has evolved a system of receipts, in the nature of a roll or honor for those who furnish the portraits. The mayor hopes that a complete collection may be made soon, when it will be deposited in the Public Library as an exceedingly valuable possession for the present and especially for the future.

It is desired that every person who can contribute a photograph do so at the earliest possible time, forwarding same to the mayor's office, or leaving word where it can be obtained if not convenient to send it there.

The form of receipt to be given as adopted is as follows:

The city of Bangor returns grateful acknowledgement to _____ for a portrait of _____ to be included in the "Bangor War Album" deposited at the Bangor Public Library.

(Signed)

Mayor of Bangor.

excellent and the authorities are doing everything possible to keep them so. Rumford places the number of severe cold, influenza and grippe cases at 1200. Anyone attending a person sick with influenza or coming directly into his presence should wear a gauze "mask" over his mouth and nose. These masks are made of several thicknesses of gauze, or cotton cloth if no gauze is to be had, fastened over the head so as to cover the mouth and nose. The hands should be carefully washed with soap and water immediately after attending anyone sick and always before eating, and wiped on a clean towel or not wiped at all.

GRIP FALLCIDES EXPOSED.

That many of the popular notions regarding preventive measures against the "grip" are harmful, and the whole of them are in the class with the rabbit's foot, is the opinion of Dr. Woodward, Boston's health commissioner.

Especially in the case of rum and whiskey, he points out, a man reduces his vitality and thus leaves himself open as an excellent subject for the disease.

"I have actually been asked by liquor interests if I was not back of the widespread rush for rum of late; if, in fact, I did not advocate its use to ward off possible influenza attacks.

"Nothing could be more unwise than the use of liquor, and I would not recommend it under any circumstances.

"Smoking has no merit as a preventive. If it had, the disease would never have run riot among our soldiers, where smoking is almost universal. The only preventive in smoking might be if an accommodating 'bug' came along and dropped on the lighted end of a cigar or cigarette.

"There is no danger in smoking as a carrier of the disease as far as germs being blown about in the smoke. But there is extreme danger in a carload of men smoking and spitting. The sputum is a very dangerous feature and the crowding together is as bad.

"The camphor bag or camphor in the clothing has absolutely no value whatever.

"Gargles and sprays are liable to irritate and injure the linings of the mouth and nose, which nature has arranged to arrest and destroy germs and so invite infection.

"To avoid infection generally is to keep out of places where people are. Crowds are the greatest spreaders of the disease. The importance of keeping away from crowds cannot be emphasized too strongly.

"Preventive measures are best found in these rules:

"Don't let anyone cough in your face. Keep your mouth shue. Wash your hands frequently. Avoid getting tired—go to bed early. Eat your meals regularly and slowly. If compelled to eat away from home, see that the dishes and cups are clean. Keep where the air is fresh. Keep away from any place where the disease is. If you must go into the presence of the sick, cover your mouth and nose with a mask or some other similar Recoveries and New Cases About Equal in Numbers—Quarantine Applies Only to Sickroom—State Gets O'Leary Vaccine—A Quebec Remedy.

Reports received by Dr. D. A. Robinson of the Bangor Board of Health from the local physicians on Monday indicated about equal numbers of recoveries and new cases.

The last canvass of Bangor physicians was made on Friday and Dr. Robinson proposes to have another complete report on Wednesday, the five days interval being that usually allowed for the clearing up of cases. It is hoped that the developments at that time may indicate something of value in determining future action by the board of health.

The wave of the epidemic appears to be extending over Maine, and the local board is urged to continue the precautions already taken against a widespread epidemic.

On Monday Secretary Goldthwait of the Bangor board of health received from the State department of health a circular of instructions concerning influenza, from which the following extracts are made:

Reporting and Quarantine: Today the state department of health, with the approval of the governor and his council has declared epidemic influenza (Spanish Influenza) to be notifiable and quarantinable. By Notifiable is meant that all physicians from now on are required by law to report cases of the disease to the local board of health.

By quarantinable is meant that cases of the disease should be placed under a moderate quarantine to include only the room isolation of a person or persons sick with the disease until all signs and symptoms of the disease have disappeared. It does not mean that quarantine of the entire houses, buildings or premises, which is impracticable. The local board of health is to use its own judgment as to the need for quarantine in each specific case.

Disinfection—Disinfection of the discharges from the mouth, throat and nose is required.

Terminal disinfection or fumigation other than through cleansing, airing and sunning are not required.

General Measures—All doctors and nurses attending cases of this disease are required to wear gauze masks.

Hospitals and other like institutions are requested to prohibit

TEACHERS' PAY GOES RIGHT ALONG

Princely Salaries of Plutocratic Phalanx Suffer No Cut Because of Grip.

All rumors and guesses to the contrary notwithstanding, the pay of Bangor school teachers will continue during their enforced absence from regular routine work on account of the closing of the schools during the prevalence of influenza. This was made clear on Monday by a school department official, who stated that he would regard any proceeding such as cutting out the teachers' salaries as an outrage.

There has been some discussion of this matter in other places and a Lewiston contemporary waxes humorous on the subject as follows:

A mistaken notion seems to have gotten abroad that many towns are cutting out the salaries of teachers during the period of closing on account of influenza or that they are reducing them to definite percentages.

Such a story has been circulated regarding Auburn. The teachers are under yearly contract and will undoubtedly receive full pay and probably do the full work. The plan of payment is another and a minor matter.

But when it comes to the amount of salaries paid school teachers the entrance of all unnecessary callers and visitors.

Dr. Leverett E. Bristol, state commissioner of health, said on Monday that the epidemic of influenza, in his opinion, was gradually increasing in the state but not to an alarming extent. Evidence of the malady is brought more to the attention of the state department of health by the new ruling of the state health council, approved by the governor and council, requiring doctors to report their cases to the local boards of health.

Dr. Bristol further said that out-of-door meetings are not advisable at this time although of course there is not the danger that there would be in indoor meetings. He also suggested that people should not travel any more than was necessary. Most of the cases in this state are traceable to people who have gone to Massachusetts particularly to Camp Devens at Ayer, and brought the germ of the disease back with them.

The state department of health on Monday received a call from Swan's Island, near Bar Harbor. Several persons on the island are sick, as well as the only doctor. Reports were received also from Eastport and Lubec stating that the disease reached those communities.

GETS O'LEARY VACCINE

Dr. Bristol on Monday received some vaccine from Dr. O'Leary of Tufts Medical School. He will inoculate his own force and give the vaccine to any one who will apply for it.

Dr. H. E. Thompson, director of the laboratory, is looking up methods of preparing the vaccine and getting the opinion of authorities in Boston on how to make it. Later, the state department of health will make vaccine for use in Maine.

A QUEBEC REMEDY.

A member of the faculty of Sherbrooke (P. Q.) Seminary writes to a relative in Maine:

"Here, in the seminary, we have had about sixty cases of influenza but that's already a thing of the past. Every one of them is back to studies. All our doctors did was to put them at once to bed, and to disinfect their nose and throat with a ten per cent. solution of Argylol."

throughout the land—it becomes a matter of serious consideration.

We do not really know what a school-marm does with all of her money nowadays. Of course she is buying most of the Liberty bonds and about all of the War Savings stamps; but then, one is limited in the number of War Savings to $1,000 a teacher and only $30,000 of Liberty bonds are privileged to tax exemption, so that out of her salary, she must have a lot left over.

I suspect that she buries the rest of her salary in the cellar. It is shameful the way New England—especially Maine cities—are throwing money away on teacher's salaries. Some of the teachers in Auburn and Lewiston are getting as much as umpteen dollars a week. Teaching, we suppose is a sort of minor job. All we commit to a teacher is the immortal mind and soul of a child. A mere trifle! If it were a real job—like taking care of a fancy stock farm and breaking butter-fat records, the job would be worth paying for.

CONFUSING REPORTS OF GRIP IN BANGOR

Astonishing Jump From "a Few New Cases" to 357 Reported By Seven Physicians in 24 Hours. Figures Include All Colds, From Which Grip May Develop—Resultant Bronchial Pneumonia Cause of the Few Deaths So Far Reported—No Relaxation of Closing Precautions.

Sharply conflicting statements and opinions of health officials and private practitioners of medicine concerning the grip situation in Bangor, as expressed on Friday, must leave the public in a decidedly confused frame of mind as to actual conditions.

According to the evening paper, Secretary Goldthwait of the board of health said on Friday that there were "a few new cases."

On Friday night Dr. Daniel A. Robinson, chairman of the board, informed the News that seven physicians had reported 357 new cases within 24 hours the number varying from 22 to 76, and the average being 51 to a physician. About twenty physicians are treating such ailments, and if the average holds good for the entire number Friday's report would indicate 1,020 new cases—a manifest absurdity, considering the small number of deaths.

The question is: How many of the cases reported are well developed cases of grip, or influenza, and how many plain colds, such as always are prevalent at this time of the year?

It is well known, and being freely admitted by physicians, that the reports made to the board of health include all patients whose cases exhibit any of the characteristics or symptoms of grip. Some of the cases will develop into grip, but the great majority do not. To be on the safe side, however, the doctors include everything at all resembling grip.

In the last few days, reports of deaths from all causes as furnished to the News by undertakers have not been any more numerous than usual, but one physician of prominence said last night that within 24 hours ending at midnight Friday there had been five deaths that to his personal knowledge resulted from bronchial pneumonia, a frequent complication or sequence of grip. Some physicians tell of entire families suffering from grip, but, for the most part, promising early recovery.

WON'T OPEN CHURCHES.

On Friday Rev. P. J. Garrity, rector of St. John's Catholic church, informed Dr. Robinson, chairman of the board of health, that he was in receipt of a telegram from Bishop Walsh stating that services will be resumed in the Catholic churches of Portland on Sunday, Oct. 13. The board of health is not at all inclined, however, to permit the reopening of the Bangor churches, considering the situation to be much too uncertain to warrant any relaxation of the precautions adopted here.

The weather for some days has been very favorable, but it must be remembered that grip is a germ disease, and that a brief period or personal contact or close assemblage is likely to spread the seeds of the malady broadcast.

It is related that in a western Maine town where not a single case of grip had been known, there was a military funeral for two soldiers whose bodies had been brought home from Camp Devens. Hundreds of the townsfolk attended, and on the following day there were 289 cases of grip in the town. Physicians are emphatic in warning of the danger of large assemblages at the funerals of grip victims, or in rooms where lie the bodies of those who have died of the disease.

While it is nothing unusual for many persons to die of pneumonia in this climate in the fall and winter months, and the present situation is not to be considered as particularly alarming, physicians urge that, in the circumstances, everyone should observe closely the ordinary rules of health, avoid unnecessary risks and, if seized with illness resembling the prevalent malady, immediately employ the best means to combat it. Few die of the grip itself, the danger coming, very often, in cases of indifference, recklessness or neglect, from the development of complications, of which bronchial pneumonia is the most common.

BUSY TIMES IN BANGOR SHIPYARD

Crew to Be Increased to 100 Next Monday—Four-Master's Keel is Laid.

For two months the Bangor Shipbuilding Company has been engaged in constructing a model plant on the river bank in East Hampden near the Bangor line, and the work is now so near completion that the company can devote its energies to the construction of vessels, the keel of a four-masted schooner already having been laid.

Operations have been somewhat delayed by difficulty in obtaining the machinery for the saw and planing mill that has been erected in the yard, but now the equipment installation is complete and on Monday the crew, numbering up to this week 25 men, will be increased to 100, and work on the four-master will be carried along steadily through the fall and winter, the vessel to be ready for launching early in the spring.

This yard is not so big as that at Hog Island, but it is a model of its size and kind, and nothing is lacking for the rapid and thorough construction of the class of wooden merchantmen for which Maine is famed—vessels that not only look well on paper but that actually are fit to go to sea in and that will outlast any of the "built-while-you-wait" kind that are being rushed into the water down south. This four-master at the Bangor company's yard will be a smart sailer and also a good carrier, if anything can be judged from models. She will have a frame of native hard wood, enough of which for two vessels is now in the yard, and the yellow pine for planking and ceiling is soon to arrive. Her deadweight capacity will be about 1,100 tons.

The Bangor Shipbuilding Company has spared no expense in the construction and equipment of its plant, and has everything to work with, including all the latest labor and time saving devices, and electric power. Other contracts are expected soon, and there is no need for any local ship carpenter to look for work at other ports, with such a good job offering right here at home.

CATHOLIC SERVICES AT OLD TOWN

In accordance with the request of Gov. Milliken, head of the State Board of Health, there will be no afternoon services in the Catholic churches of Old Town but in the morning, with the whole church ventilated there will be low mass, instead of high mass and sermon, at the usual hour in order to beg of God the cessation of the present plague.

Fear 500 Lost on Transport Otranto

AN IRISH PORT, Wednesday, Oct. 9.—(By The Associated Press)—Two hundred and ninety five American soldiers from the transport Otranto and 236 of the crew have been accounted for, but the fate of nearly 500 more of the ship's company who were aboard the stricken transport when she drifted ashore is still unrevealed. In the hope of succoring those who succeeded in fighting their way ashore through the raging surf, a party of eight, including physicians, left here for a point farther north, whence they embarked this morning for Islay Island, carrying clothing and medical and other supplies furnished by the American Red Cross. It will be a day or two perhaps before news is received of the outcome of the mission.

Further details of the work done by a British destroyer in taking off from the Otranto and landing safely hundreds of soldiers and sailors brought to this port accentuate the remarkable daring and skill of the rescuing craft. Even after the survivors had reached the deck of the destroyer their position continued desperate, for mountainous waves repeatedly broke over the little vessel, and, according to reports, swept about thirty persons overboard. Others were saved from a similar fate by lashing themselves to torpedo tubes and to the destroyer's superstructure. For nearly twelve hours the survivors, all wet through and many badly injured, were exposed to the fury of the wind and the waves until the destroyer made port.

Fifty-five were hurried into waiting ambulances and rushed to hospitals. Others were taken to a British barracks, where the American Red Cross quickly fitted them out with a complete change of clothes and all were given hot food and stimulants. Many of them were weak from the exposure and strain. Private Raymond Simpson died on the destroyer from injuries and was buried today.

The Otranto was the flagship of a large convoy, including the Kashmir, which, as the result of a heavy gale, became unmanageable. A thick rain closed in on the convoy Sunday morning-off the north coast of Ireland and about nine o'clock the Kashmir rammed the Otranto amidships.

Although the Otranto's commander realized that the ship probably was fatally damaged, he ordered the other vessels to proceed, including the Kashmir, which was able to continue under her own steam and eventually made port. The Otranto's case seemed hopeless. The gale was then at its worst and the seas were running 75 feet high. There was no chance of launching the boats and as the engines had stopped as a result of the fires being put out by the in-pouring water the vessel was at the mercy of the waves and drifted rapidly before the storm.

Soon the ship began to list and the soldiers and crew, under perfect discipline, moved in a body to the other side thus preventing the vessel from capsizing. Suddenly through the mist loomed a small destroyer which had picked up the Otranto's distress signals. The destroyer herself was partly disabled by engine trouble. Seven of the Otranto's boats were lowered to the water to act as a buffer, for the destroyer which with wonderful seamanship manoeuvred close to the steamer's side.

The order to abandon ship was given and the officer commanding the troops instructed the men to remove their overcoats and shoes. Scores then began leaping from the rails, 40 feet above to the destroyer's deck. Many of those who reached the deck of the vessel suffered broken bones or otherwise were hurt. Those who missed the deck of the destroyer went to almost instant death.

Four times the battered destroyer came alongside and each time the previous scenes were repeated. At the end of the fourth trip she had 310 Americans, 236 of the crew, 30 French sailors and one British officer on board. The boat was full and, having done all possible, she started for port.

The survivors saw the Otranto drifting helplessly toward the rocks as they started toward the Irish coast.

In the Treatment of Influenza Coughs and Colds and in the Prevention of Pneumonia

one should not overlook a Massachusetts product of great value in such cases. OXIDAZE TABLETS to be had at most of the drug stores and carried by all the leading jobbing houses, have many friends who have used them during the past few years themselves and in their families, with the best results. At this time, when Pneumonia is so prevalent, they call attention to the fact that in the city of Mexico, where these tablets were first tried out on a large scale, Dr. G. Pagensteher, late director of the Am. Hospital there and a very prominent and greatly esteemed physician, reported as follows in 1910: "I have tried the remedy for two full years, and will say I do not know any better and more efficient cure for Pneumonia than Oxidaze. I have had the chance to cure several cases of suppurative Pneumonia." Years later he reported that his treatment for the prevention and cure of Pneumonia continued successfully with Oxidaze Tablets. Dr. Frederick Miller of the same city reported the same results after ten years' practice with them.

A certain prominent Mill-owner in Worcester county, who had great confidence, from past experience, in this remedy, bought a supply of Oxidaze Tablets two weeks ago, and distributed them to his employees. Although his mill is surrounded by other mills running only part of the time because of INFLUENZA, many machines being idle, and many families afflicted, in one case ten being sick in bed with the disease, only one of his operatives has been out on account of sickness and this case is not considered influenza.

Under these circumstances we suggest that these reliable physicians probably knew what they were talking about and that it would be well for all of us, in view of the epidemic of Influenza followed by so many cases of Pneumonia, to try out these tablets for ourselves. No possible harm can result using them as a preventative, and, of course, if the disease should develop a physician should be called in at once.—Adv.

The destroyer barely had time to send a brief message when her wireless was carried away. The tiny overloaded vessel had a rough trip to port.

Numbers of bodies were today being washed upon the shore. It was reported that 175 had been counted at noon and nearly all of them had been identified.

The victims are to be collected at the most suitable place and buried there. A boat left Liverpool today with material for coffins, fifty laborers and carpenters and chaplains to conduct the funerals. Every grave will be marked and charted so that it will be possible to locate every man later.

MORE DETAILS OF LEINSTER SINKING

DUBLIN, Oct. 11—Of the 150 women and children aboard the steamship Leinster when she was destroyed by a German submarine, only 15 have been accounted for. Several of these have died since they were brought to port.

Americans on the Leinster who escaped were J. M. Rafferty, D. J. Murphy, G. W. Russell, —Dwyer and —Hogan. All these are being cared for at the soldiers' war hotel. The fate of another American, John A. Rose, has not been learned.

The survivors warmly praise Captain Cone for his efforts to preserve order on the ship after the first explosion. The second explosion flung him violently to the deck. He rolled himself to the side of the ship, and despite his useless leg, flung himself into the water to avoid going down with the vessel.

Mr. Martin said that every effort was made by the Americans to get the boats out, but they had not succeeded in getting them as the second torpedo struck the ship. The second explosion he said, seemed to cut the ship in two and the boilers and everything in the center of the ship were blown away. Not more than two boats got away before the second explosion, according to Mr. Martin, after which the vessel quickly sunk.

The American baptist ministers, Trutt, Hoyt and Francis, and a Mr. Shields of Toronto had booked passage on the Leinster, but owing to the bad weather had been unable to leave Cork in time to catch the boat.

EXAMINATIONS FOR WEST POINT

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11—Senator Frederick Hale has just received notice that he has two appointments for West Point for a class to enter Nov. 1 of this year. The government will hold competitive examinations beginning Oct. 15. The two highest men who qualify physically will be appointed and enter West Point on the first of November. Candidates are available between the ages of 18 and 22. Those who desire to have their names entered as candidates should telegraph Senator Hale at Washington before Oct. 14. The government will then notify them of the time and place of examination. The West Point course has been reduced to one year at the conclusion of which those who pass the West Point requirements will be commissioned second lieutenants in the army.

POTATOES, HERE AND IN CANADA

Maurice E. Dickinson who left his hotel business in St. John last winter, to take up potato raising near Presque Isle, says that he has dug 1,200 barrels and has twelve acres still to dig. The spuds are turning out about 75 barrels to the acre. Last week Maine shipped 511 cars as against 393 cars during the corresponding week last year. Maine Green Mountains and Cobblers are selling at Presque Isle at $1.82 to $1.97 bag and in the consuming markets $2.50 to $2.85. Digging was delayed a couple of days by snow and wet weather. Houlton reports prices are declining and the demand poor. In that town Cobblers are worth $1.82 to $2 a barrel, Mountains, $1.82 to $1.94, and Rose $1.82. Caribou reports the same conditions. The quality in Maine is good.

Reports received from New Brunswick give an estimated yield of 8,650 bushels as against an estimated yield last year of 5,000,000 bushels. Prince Edwards Island gives promise of a better yield than last year although acreage is slightly less; Nova Scotia has a large acreage with prospects of a good crop; Quebec also promises large crops of potatoes and all kinds of vegetables.

GIBERSON—HAWKINS

Frank Giberson of Aroostook Junction and Miss Pearl Hawkins of Bangor were married at the home of the bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Almida Giberson in Aroostook Junction, N. B., Tuesday, Sept. 10, the single ring service being performed by Rev. C. N. Barton of Perth. The rooms were decorated with cut flow and autumn leaves. After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Giberson left for Bangor. Among the out of town guests were Mrs. Gatombe and Mrs. Thurott, Erieport; Mrs. Iza Hawkins, Woodville; Mrs. Annie Hawkins, Bangor, and Mrs. Chester Giberson of Fort F. field.

DEATH OF PAINTER OF "THE SPIRIT OF '76"

CLEVELAND, O., Oct. 11—A. M. Willard, painter of the famous picture "The Spirit of '76," died at his home here today, aged 81. Death was due to heart failure.

Willard's painting was finished in 1876 and was exhibited at the Philadelphia Centennial, after which it was bought by General J. H. Devereaux of Cleveland, who presented it to the town of Marblehead, Mass., where it now hangs in Abbott Hall. Harr Devereaux, president of the grand cuit, posed for the picture of the man in the painting.

Willard was a Civil war veteran who came to Cleveland in 1873 from Lexington, Ohio. He is survived by a daughter and son.

A bronze tablet has been unveiled at the Bangor Public Library, in memory of Miss Winona Caroline Merrill who shortly after her arrival in Bangor last March was killed in a German raid. She is believed to have been the first American woman to lose her life in this war on French soil.

FOR COLDS AND GRIP

SPANISH INFLUENZA--WHAT IT IS AND HOW IT SHOULD BE TREATED

Nothing New—Simply the Old Grip, or la Grippe That Was Epidemic in 1889-90, Only Then It Came From Russia By Way of France and This Time By Way of Spain.

Go to Bed and Stay Quiet—Take A Laxative—Eat Plenty of Nourishing Food—Keep up Your Strength—Nature Is The "Cure."

ALWAYS CALL A DOCTOR

NO OCCASION FOR PANIC

Spanish influenza, which appeared in May, has all the appearance of grip or la grippe, which has swept over the world in numerous epidemics as far back as history runs. Hippocrates refers to an epidemic in 412 B. C. which is regarded by many to have been influenza. Every century has had its attacks. Beginning with 1831, this country has had five epidemics, the last in 1889-90.

There is no occasion for panic—influenza itself has a very low percentage of fatalities—not over one death out of every four hundred cases, according to the N. C. Board of Health. The chief danger lies in complications arising, attacking principally, patients in a run down condition—those who don't go to bed soon enough, or those who get up too early.

THE SYMPTOMS

Grippe, or influenza as it is now called, usually begins with a chill followed by aching, feverishness and sometimes nausea and dizziness, and a general feeling of weakness and depression. The temperature is from 100 to 104, and the fever usually lasts from three to five days. The germs attack the mucous membrane, or lining of the air passages—nose, throat and bronchial tubes—there is usually a hard cough, especially bad at night, often times a sore throat or tonsillitis, and frequently all the appearances of a severe head cold.

THE TREATMENT

Go to bed at the first symptoms, not only for your own sake but to avoid spreading the disease to others—take a purgative, eat plenty of nourishing food, remain perfectly quiet and don't worry. Quinine, aspirin or Dover's Powder, etc., may be administered by the physician's directions to relieve the aching. But there is no cure or specific for influenza—the disease must run its course, but Nature will throw off the attack if only you keep up your strength. The chief danger lies in the complications which may arise. Influenza so weakens the bodily resistance that there is danger of pneumonia or bronchitis developing, and sometimes inflammation of the middle ear, or heart affections. For these reasons, it is very important that the patient remain in bed until his strength returns—stay in bed at least two days or more after the fever has left you, or if you are over 50 or not strong, stay in bed four days or more, according to the severity of the attack.

EXTERNAL APPLICATIONS

In order to stimulate the lining of the air passages to throw off the grippe germs, to aid in loosening the phlegm and keeping the air passages open, thus making the breathing easier, Vick's VapoRub will be found effective. Hot, wet towels should be applied over the throat, chest and back between the shoulder blades to open the pores. Then VapoRub should be rubbed in over the parts until the skin is red, spread on thickly and covered with two thicknesses of hot flannel cloths. Leave the clothing loose around the neck as the heat of the body liberates the ingredients in the form of vapors. These vapors, inhaled with each breath, carry the medication directly to the parts affected. At the same time, VapoRub is absorbed through and stimulates the skin, attracting the blood to the surface, and thus aids in relieving the congestion within.

HOW TO AVOID THE DISEASE

Evidence seems to prove that this is a germ disease, spreads principally by human contact, chiefly thru coughing, sneezing or spitting. So avoid persons having colds—which means avoiding crowds—common drinking cups, roller towels, etc. Keep up your bodily strength by plenty of exercise in the open air, and good food. Above all, keep free from colds, as colds irritate the lining of the air passages and render them much better breeding places for the germs.

Use Vick's VapoRub at the very first sign of a cold. For a head cold, melt a little VapoRub in a spoon and inhale the vapors, or better still, use VapoRub in a benzoin steam kettle. If this is not available, use an ordinary tea-kettle. Fill half-full of boiling water, put in half a teaspoon of VapoRub from time to time—keep the kettle just slowly boiling and inhale the steam arising.

NOTE. Vick's VapoRub is the discovery of a North Carolina druggist, who found how to combine, in salve form, Menthol and Camphor with such volatile oils as Eucalyptus, Thyme, Cubeba, etc., so that when the salve is applied to the body heat, these ingredients are liberated in the form of vapors.

VapoRub is comparatively new in New York State and New England and a few Western states where it is just now being introduced, but in the other sections of the country it is the standard home remedy in over a million homes for all forms of cold troubles. Over six million jars were sold last year. It is particularly recommended for children's croup or colds, since it is externally applied and therefore can be used as freely as desired without the slightest harmful effects. VapoRub can be had in three sizes at all druggists.—Adv.

CONFUSING REPORTS OF GRIP IN BANGOR

Astonishing Jump From "a Few New Cases" to 357 Reported By Seven Physicians in 24 Hours. Figures Include All Colds, From Which Grip May Develop—Resultant Bronchial Pneumonia Cause of the Few Deaths So Far Reported—No Relaxation of Closing Precautions.

Sharply conflicting statements and opinions of health officials and private practitioners of medicine concerning the grip situation in Bangor, as expressed on Friday, must leave the public in a decidedly confused frame of mind as to actual conditions.

According to the evening paper, Secretary Goldthwait of the board of health said on Friday that there were "a few new cases."

On Friday night Dr. Daniel A. Robinson, chairman of the board, informed the News that seven physicians had reported 357 new cases within 24 hours the number varying from 22 to 70, and the average being 51 to a physician. About twenty physicians are treating such ailments, and if the average holds good for the entire number Friday's report would indicate 1,020 new cases—a manifest absurdity, considering the small number of deaths.

The question is: How many of the cases reported are well developed cases of grip, or influenza, and how many plain colds, such as always are prevalent at this time of the year?

It is well known, and being freely admitted by physicians, that the reports made to the board of health include all patients whose cases exhibit any of the characteristics or symptoms of grip. Some of the cases will develop into grip, but the great majority do not. To be on the safe side, however, the doctors include everything at all resembling grip.

In the last few days, reports of deaths from all causes as furnished to the News by undertakers have not been any more numerous than usual, but one physician of prominence said last night that within 24 hours ending at midnight Friday there had been five deaths that to his personal knowledge

DUBLIN, Oct. 11—Of the 150 women and children aboard the steamship Leinster when she was destroyed by a German submarine, only 15 have been accounted for. Several of these have died since they were brought to port.

Americans on the Leinster who escaped were J. M. Rafferty, D. J. Murphy, G. W. Russell, Dwyer and Hogan. All these are being cared for at the soldiers' war hotel. The fate of another American, John A. Rose, has not been learned.

The survivors warmly praise Captain Cone for his efforts to preserve order on the ship after the first explosion. The second explosion flung him violently to the deck. He rolled himself to the side of the ship, and despite his useless leg, flung himself into the water to avoid going down with the vessel.

Mr. Martin said that every effort was made by the Americans to get the boats out, but they had not succeeded in getting them as the second torpedo struck the ship. The second explosion he said, seemed to cut the ship in two and the boilers and everything in the center of the ship were blown away. Not more than two boats got away before the second explosion, according to Mr. Martin, after which the vessel quickly sunk.

The American baptist ministers, Trutt, Hoyt and Francis, and a Mr. Shields of Toronto had booked passage on the Leinster, but owing to the bad weather had been unable to leave Cork in time to catch the boat.

NO OCCASION FOR PANIC

Spanish influenza, which appeared in May, has all the appearance of grip or la grippe, which has swept over the world in numerous epidemics as far back as history runs. Hippocrates refers to an epidemic in 412 B. C. which is regarded by many to have been influenza. Every century has had its attacks. Beginning with 1831, this country has had five epidemics, the last in 1889-90.

There is no occasion for panic—influenza itself has a very low percentage of fatalities—not over one death out of every four hundred cases, according to the N. C. Board of Health. The chief danger lies in complications arising, attacking principally, patients in a run down condition—those who don't go to bed soon enough, or those who get up too early.

THE SYMPTOMS

Grippe, or influenza as it is now called, usually begins with a chill followed by aching, feverishness and sometimes nausea and dizziness, and a general feeling of weakness and depression. The temperature is from 100 to 104, and the fever usually lasts from three to five days. The germs attack the mucous membrane, or lining of the air passages—nose, throat and bronchial tubes—there is usually a hard cough, especially bad at night, often times a sore throat or tonsillitis, and frequently all the appearances of a severe head cold.

THE TREATMENT

Go to bed at the first symptoms, not only for your own sake but to avoid spreading the disease to others—take a purgative, eat plenty of nourishing food, remain perfectly quiet and don't worry. Quinine, aspirin or Dover's Powder, etc., may be administered by the physician's directions to relieve the aching. But there is no cure or specific for influenza—the disease must run its course, but Nature will throw off the attack if only you keep up your strength. The chief danger lies in the complications which may arise. Influenza weakens the bodily resistance that there is danger of pneumonia or bronchitis developing, and sometimes inflammation of the middle ear, or heart affections. For these reasons, it is very important that the patient remain in bed until his strength returns—stay in bed at least two days or more after the fever has left you, or if you are over 50 or not strong, stay in bed four days or more, according to the severity of the attack.

EXTERNAL APPLICATIONS

In order to stimulate the lining of the air passages to throw off the grippe germs, to aid in loosening the phlegm and keeping the air passages open, thus making the breathing easier, Vick's VapoRub will be found effective. Hot, wet towels should be applied over the throat, chest and back between the shoulder blades to open the pores. Then VapoRub should be rubbed in over the parts until the skin is red, spread on thickly and covered with two thicknesses of hot flannel cloths. Leave the clothing loose around the neck as the heat of the body liberates the ingredients in the form of vapors. These vapors, inhaled with each breath, carry the medication directly to the parts affected. At the same time, VapoRub is absorbed through and stimulates the skin, attracting the blood to the surface, and thus aids in relieving the congestion within.

HOW TO AVOID THE DISEASE

Evidence seems to prove that this is a germ disease, spreads principally by human contact, chiefly through coughing, sneezing or spitting. So avoid persons having colds—which means avoiding crowds—common drinking cups, roller towels, etc. Keep up your bodily strength by plenty of exercise in the open air, and good food. Above all, keep free from colds, as colds irritate the lining of the air passages and render them much better breeding places for the germs.

Use Vick's VapoRub at the very first sign of a cold. For a head cold, melt a little VapoRub in a spoon and inhale the vapors, or better still, use VapoRub in a benzoin steam kettle. If this is not available, use an ordinary tea-kettle. Fill half-full of boiling water, put in half a teaspoon of VapoRub from time to time—keep the kettle just slowly boiling and inhale the steam arising.

NOTE. Vick's VapoRub is the discovery of a North Carolina druggist, who found how to combine, in salve form, Menthol and Camphor with such volatile oils as Eucalyptus, Thyme, Cubebs, etc., so that when the salve is applied to the body heat, these ingredients are liberated in the form of vapors.

VapoRub is comparatively new in New York State and New England and a few Western states where it is just now being introduced, but in the other sections of the country it is the standard home remedy in over a million homes for all forms of cold troubles. Over six million jars were sold last year. It is particularly recommended for children's croup or colds, since it is externally applied and therefore can be used as freely as desired without the slightest harmful effects. VapoRub can be had in three sizes at all druggists.—Adv't

Coughed So He Couldn't Sleep.

Bronchial coughs, tickling in throat and asthmatic spasms break one's rest and weaken one so that the system is run-down and serious sickness may result. Enos Halbert, Paoli, Ind., writes: "I had a severe cold and coughed continually at night; could hardly sleep. Foley's Honey and Tar cured my cough.—Caldwell Sweet Co.—adv't engine trouble. Seven of the Otranto's boats were lowered to the water to act as a buffer for the destroyer which with wonderful seamanship manoeuvred close to the steamer's side.

The order to abandon ship was given and the officer commanding the troops instructed the men to remove their overcoats and shoes. Scores then began leaping from the rails, 40 feet above to the destroyer's deck. Many of those who reached the deck of the vessel suffered broken bones or otherwise were hurt. Those who missed the deck of the destroyer went to almost instant death.

Four times the battered destroyer came alongside and each time the previous scenes were repeated. At the end of the fourth trip she had 310 Americans, 236 of the crew, 30 French sailors and one British officer on board. The boat was full and, having done all possible, she started for port.

The survivors saw the Otranto drifting helplessly toward the rocks as they started toward the Irish coast.

In the Treatment of Influenza Coughs and Colds and in the Prevention of Pneumonia

one should not overlook a Massachusetts product of great value in such cases. OXIDAZE TABLETS to be had at most of the drug stores and carried by all the leading jobbing houses, have many friends who have used them during the past few years themselves and in their families, with the best results. At this time, when Pneumonia is so prevalent, they call attention to the fact that in the city of Mexico, where these tablets were first tried out on a large scale, Dr. G. Pagenstecher, late director of the Am. Hospital there and a very prominent and greatly esteemed physician, reported as follows in 1910: "I have tried the remedy for two full years, and will say I do not know any better and more efficient cure for Pneumonia than Oxidaze. I have had the chance to cure several cases of suppurative Pneumonia." Years later he reported that his treatment for the prevention and cure of Pneumonia continued successfully with Oxidaze Tablets. Dr. Frederick Miller of the same city reported the same results after ten years' practice with them.

A certain prominent mill-owner in Worcester county, who had great confidence, from past experience, in this remedy, bought a supply of Oxidaze Tablets two weeks ago, and distributed them to his employees. Although his mill is surrounded by other mills running only part of the time because of INFLUENZA, many machines being idle, and many families afflicted, in one case ten being sick in bed with the disease, only one of his operatives has been out on account of sickness and this case is not considered influenza.

Under these circumstances we suggest that these reliable physicians probably knew what they were talking about and that it would be well for all of us, in view of the epidemic of Influenza followed by so many cases of Pneumonia, to try out these tablets for ourselves. No possible harm can result using them as a preventative, and, of course, if the disease should develop a physician should be called in at once.—Adv't

Those who desire to have their names entered as candidates should telegraph Senator Hale at Washington before Oct. 14. The government will then notify them of the time and place of examination. The West Point course has been reduced to one year at the conclusion of which those who pass West Point requirements will be commissioned second lieutenants in army.

POTATOES, HERE AND IN CANADA

Maurice E. Dickinson who left hotel business in St. John last winter, take up potato raising near Presque Isle, says that he has dug 1,200 barrels and has twelve acres still to dig. The spuds are turning out about 75 barrels to the acre. Last week Maine shipped 511 cars as against 363 cars during corresponding week last year. Maine Green Mountains and Cobblers are selling at Presque Isle at $1.82 to $1.90 bag and in the consuming markets $2.00 to $2.85. Digging was delayed a couple of days by snow and wet weather. Houlton reports prices are declining and the demand poor. In that case Cobblers are worth $1.82 to $2 a barrel, Mountains, $1.82 to $1.94, and Red $1.82. Caribou reports the same conditions. The quality in Maine is good.

Reports received from New Brunswick give an estimated yield of 8,650 bushels as against an estimated yield of last year of 5,000,000 bushels; Prince Edwards Island gives promise of a better yield than last year although acreage is slightly less; Nova Scotia has a large acreage with prospects of a good crop; Quebec also promises a large crop of potatoes and all kinds of vegetables.

Manitoba will have the largest crop of potatoes in her history, which is estimated at 10,000,000 bushels.
